Dear Graduates:

America is a nation of immigrants. They came from Europe, Africa, Asia and they still come. These people, representing a proud heritage, came and enriched our country. They brought their cultures to their new home, and made their past part of America's future. Through their work, their struggles and their fight for a better life, they built a better America and a better world.

Your graduation marks the twentieth anniversary of John Bowne High School. Over the past twenty years many students representing different ethnic backgrounds, needs and goals, came together to work, to learn and to earn a diploma. Their multi-cultural, multi-lingual characteristics created a positive force in developing strong programs which allow all students to maximize their potential. Each succeeding group of students created a special magic which acted to rejuvenate and renew the staff and allows us to remain young. In exchange we have offered you opportunity, growth and success.

You must now aspire to reach your career goals, achieve to your fullest capacity, and work towards finding solutions to the many problems besetting our world, for you represent the measure of the past and the hope of the future:

Poets to come! Orators, singers, musicians to come!
Not to-day is to justify me and answer what I am for,
But you, a new brood, native, athletic, continental,
greater than before known,
Arouse! for you must justify me.
Walt Whitman

This is your task, your obligation and your trust. I am confident that you will rise to this challenge and create a better world.

With best wishes for success in all of your endeavors.

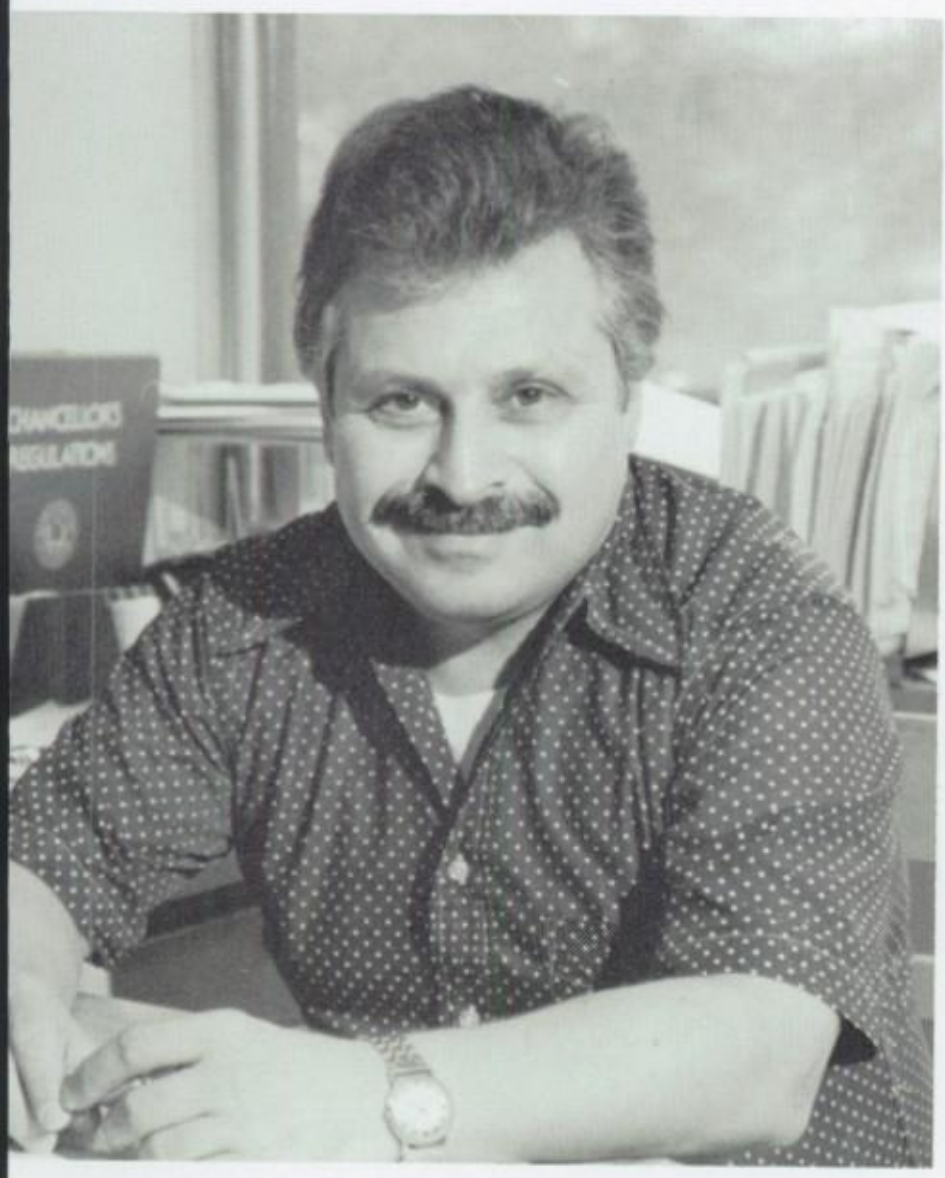

Cordially,

Patricia Kobetts

Land of opportunity

The sign read: "Welcome, Ellis Island, New York, U.S.A."

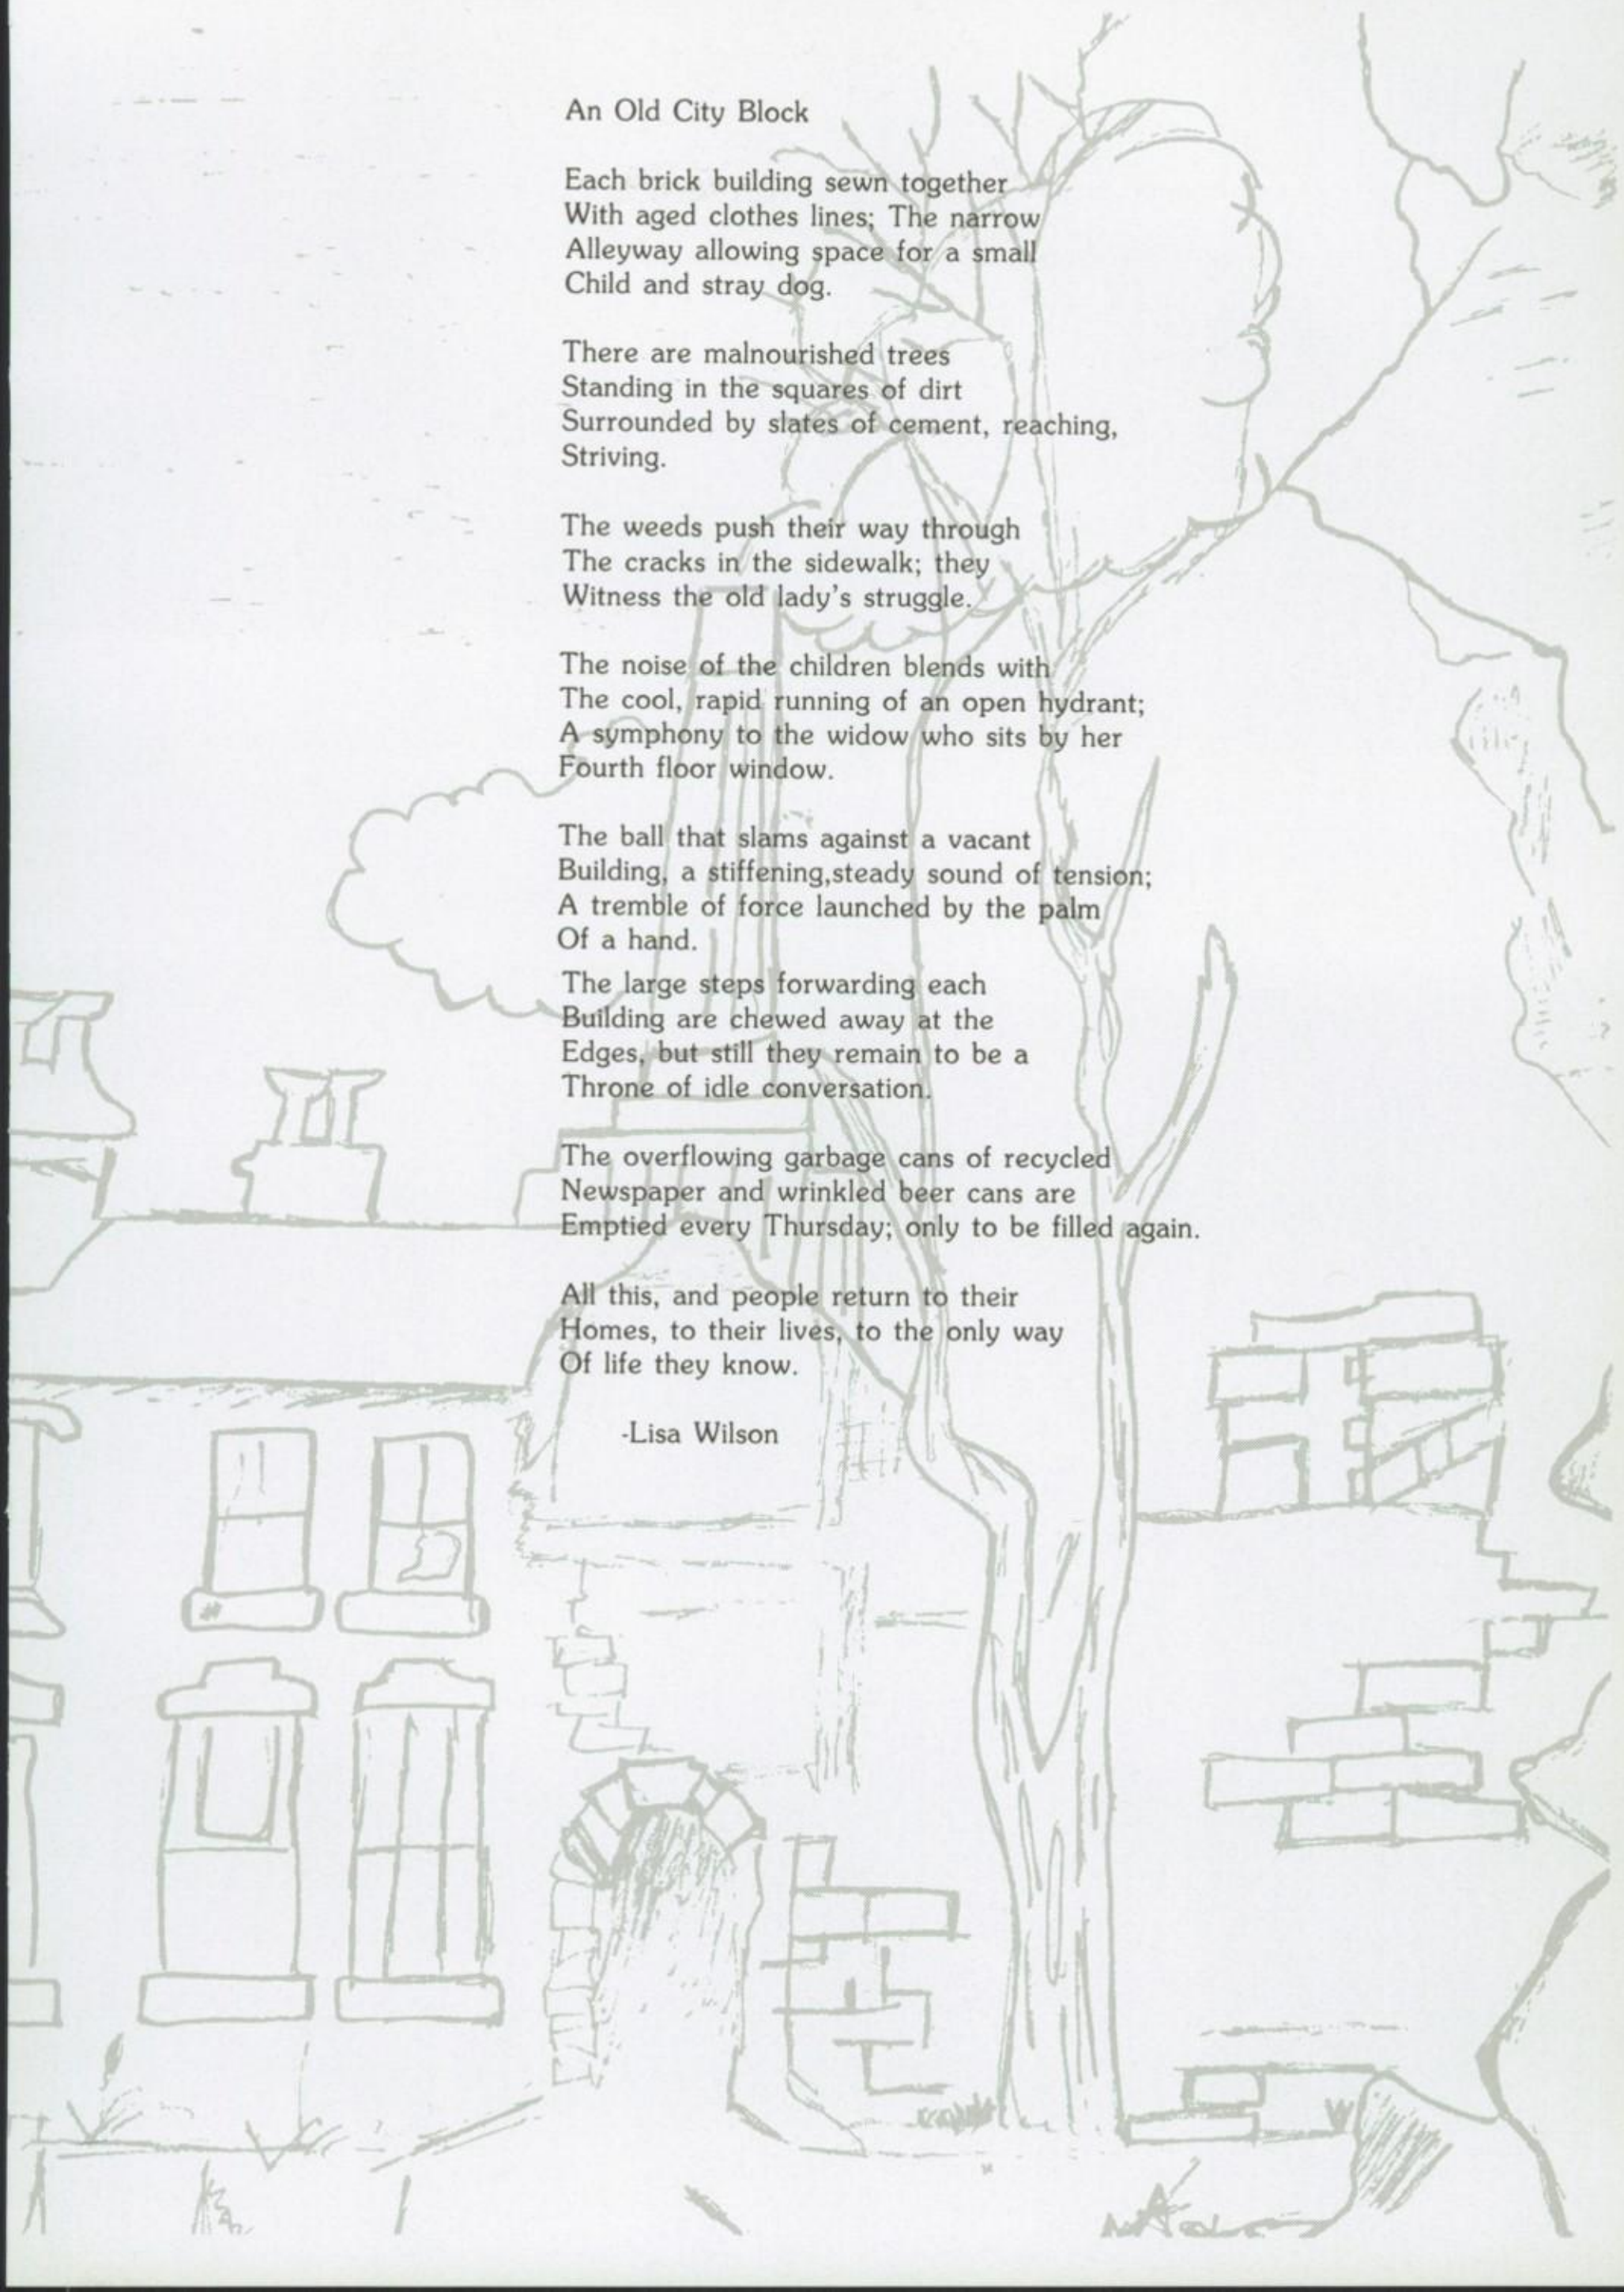

It was 1921, as my grandfather disembarked, a bit afraid but undaunted in his quest for a new life in a new land.

Like him, millions have immigrated to fulfill their dreams.

America, land of opportunity; come realize your destiny.

-Jay Wolsky

An Old City Block

Each brick building sewn together
With aged clothes lines; The narrow Alleyway allowing space for a small
Child and stray dog.

There are malnourished trees
Standing in the squares of dirt
Surrounded by slates of cement, reaching,
Striving.

The weeds push their way through
The cracks in the sidewalk; they Witness the old lady's struggle.

The noise of the children blends with
The cool, rapid running of an open hydrant;
A symphony to the widow who sits by her
Fourth floor window.

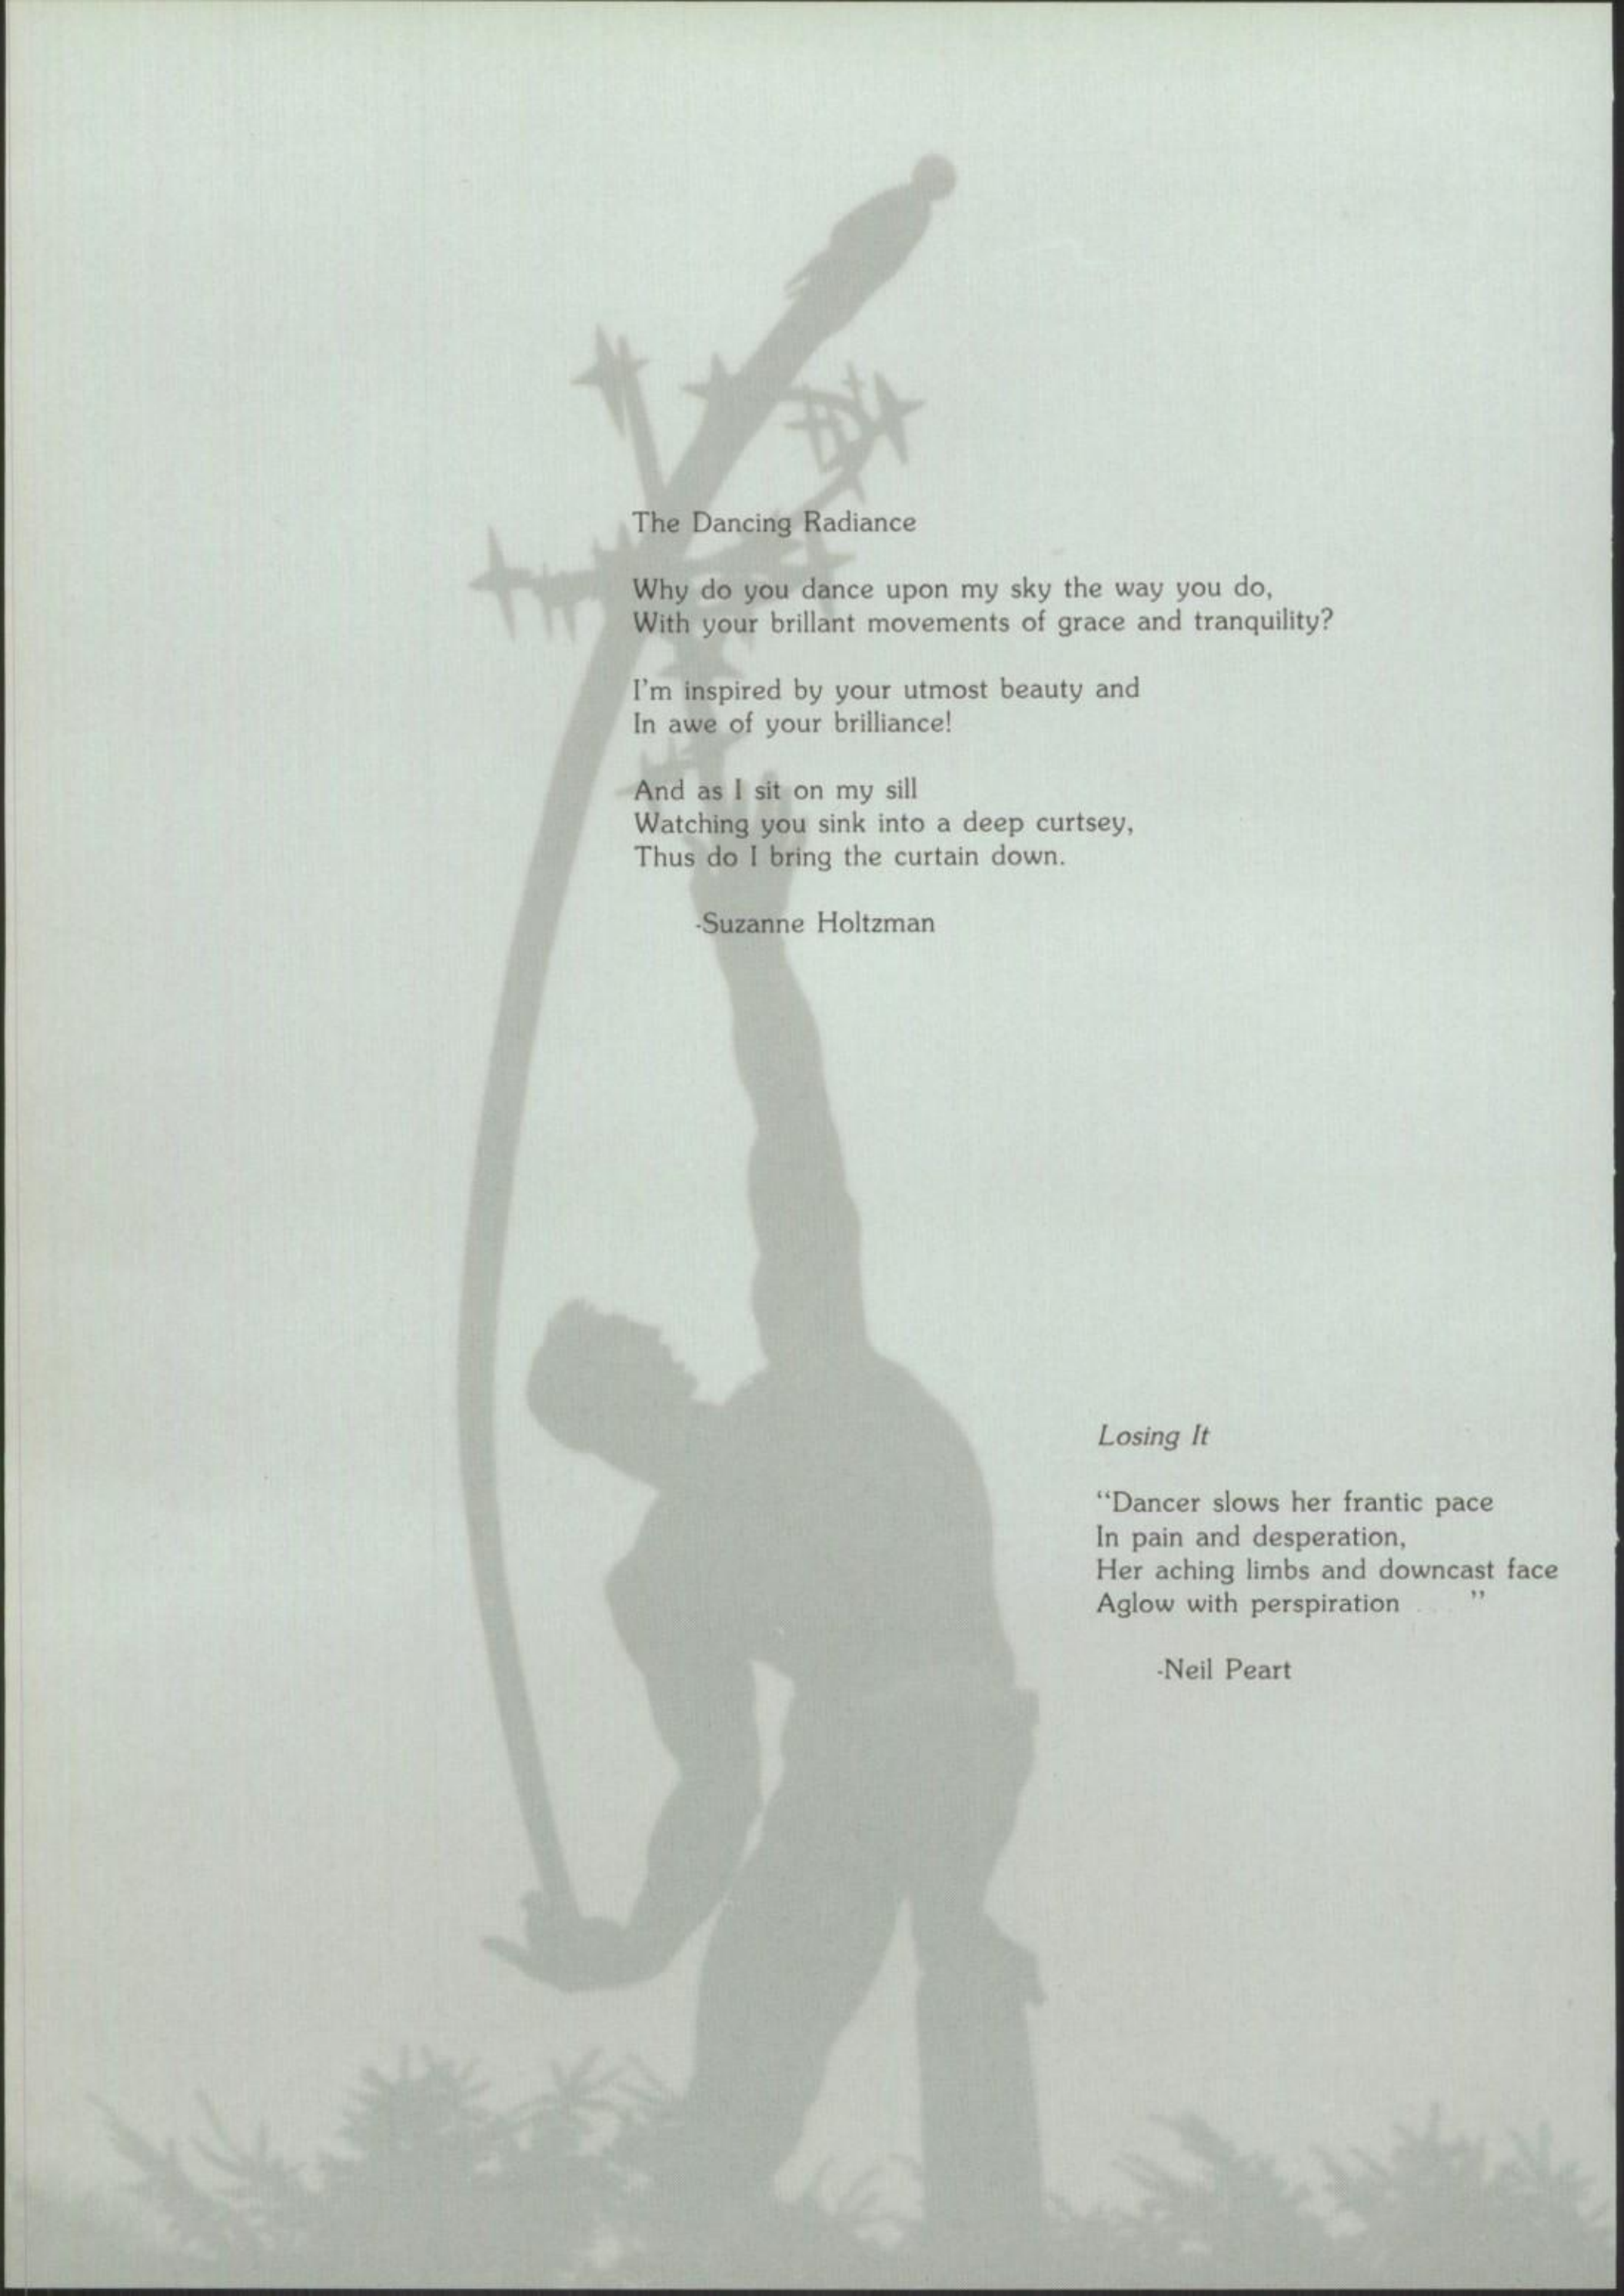

The ball that slams against a vacant
Building, a stiffening,steady sound of tension;
A tremble of force launched by the palm
Of a hand.

The large steps forwarding each Building are chewed away at the Edges, but still they remain to be a
Throne of idle conversation.

The overflowing garbage cans of recycled
Newspaper and wrinkled beer cans are Emptied every Thursday; only to be filled again.

All this, and people return to their Homes, to their lives, to the only way
Of life they know.

-Lisa Wilson

The Dancing Radiance

Why do you dance upon my sky the way you do,
With your brillant movements of grace and tranquility?

I'm inspired by your utmost beauty and
In awe of your brilliance!

And as I sit on my sill
Watching you sink into a deep curtsey,
Thus do I bring the curtain down.

-Suzanne Holtzman

Losing It

"Dancer slows her frantic pace
In pain and desperation,
Her aching limbs and downcast face
Aglow with perspiration . . . "

-Neil Peart

Safeness is living on the edge
Thinking that you're already dead
In this way you can't be surprised by the unexpected
(Living in the mouth of the panther)

- Jean Ferreri

The gathering clouds
The stillness of the air,
All whisper tidings of the coming storm.
With unbridled fury, the storm breaks
Upon the land, cleansing and nourishing at once.
Suddenly it is over, and all is pure again.

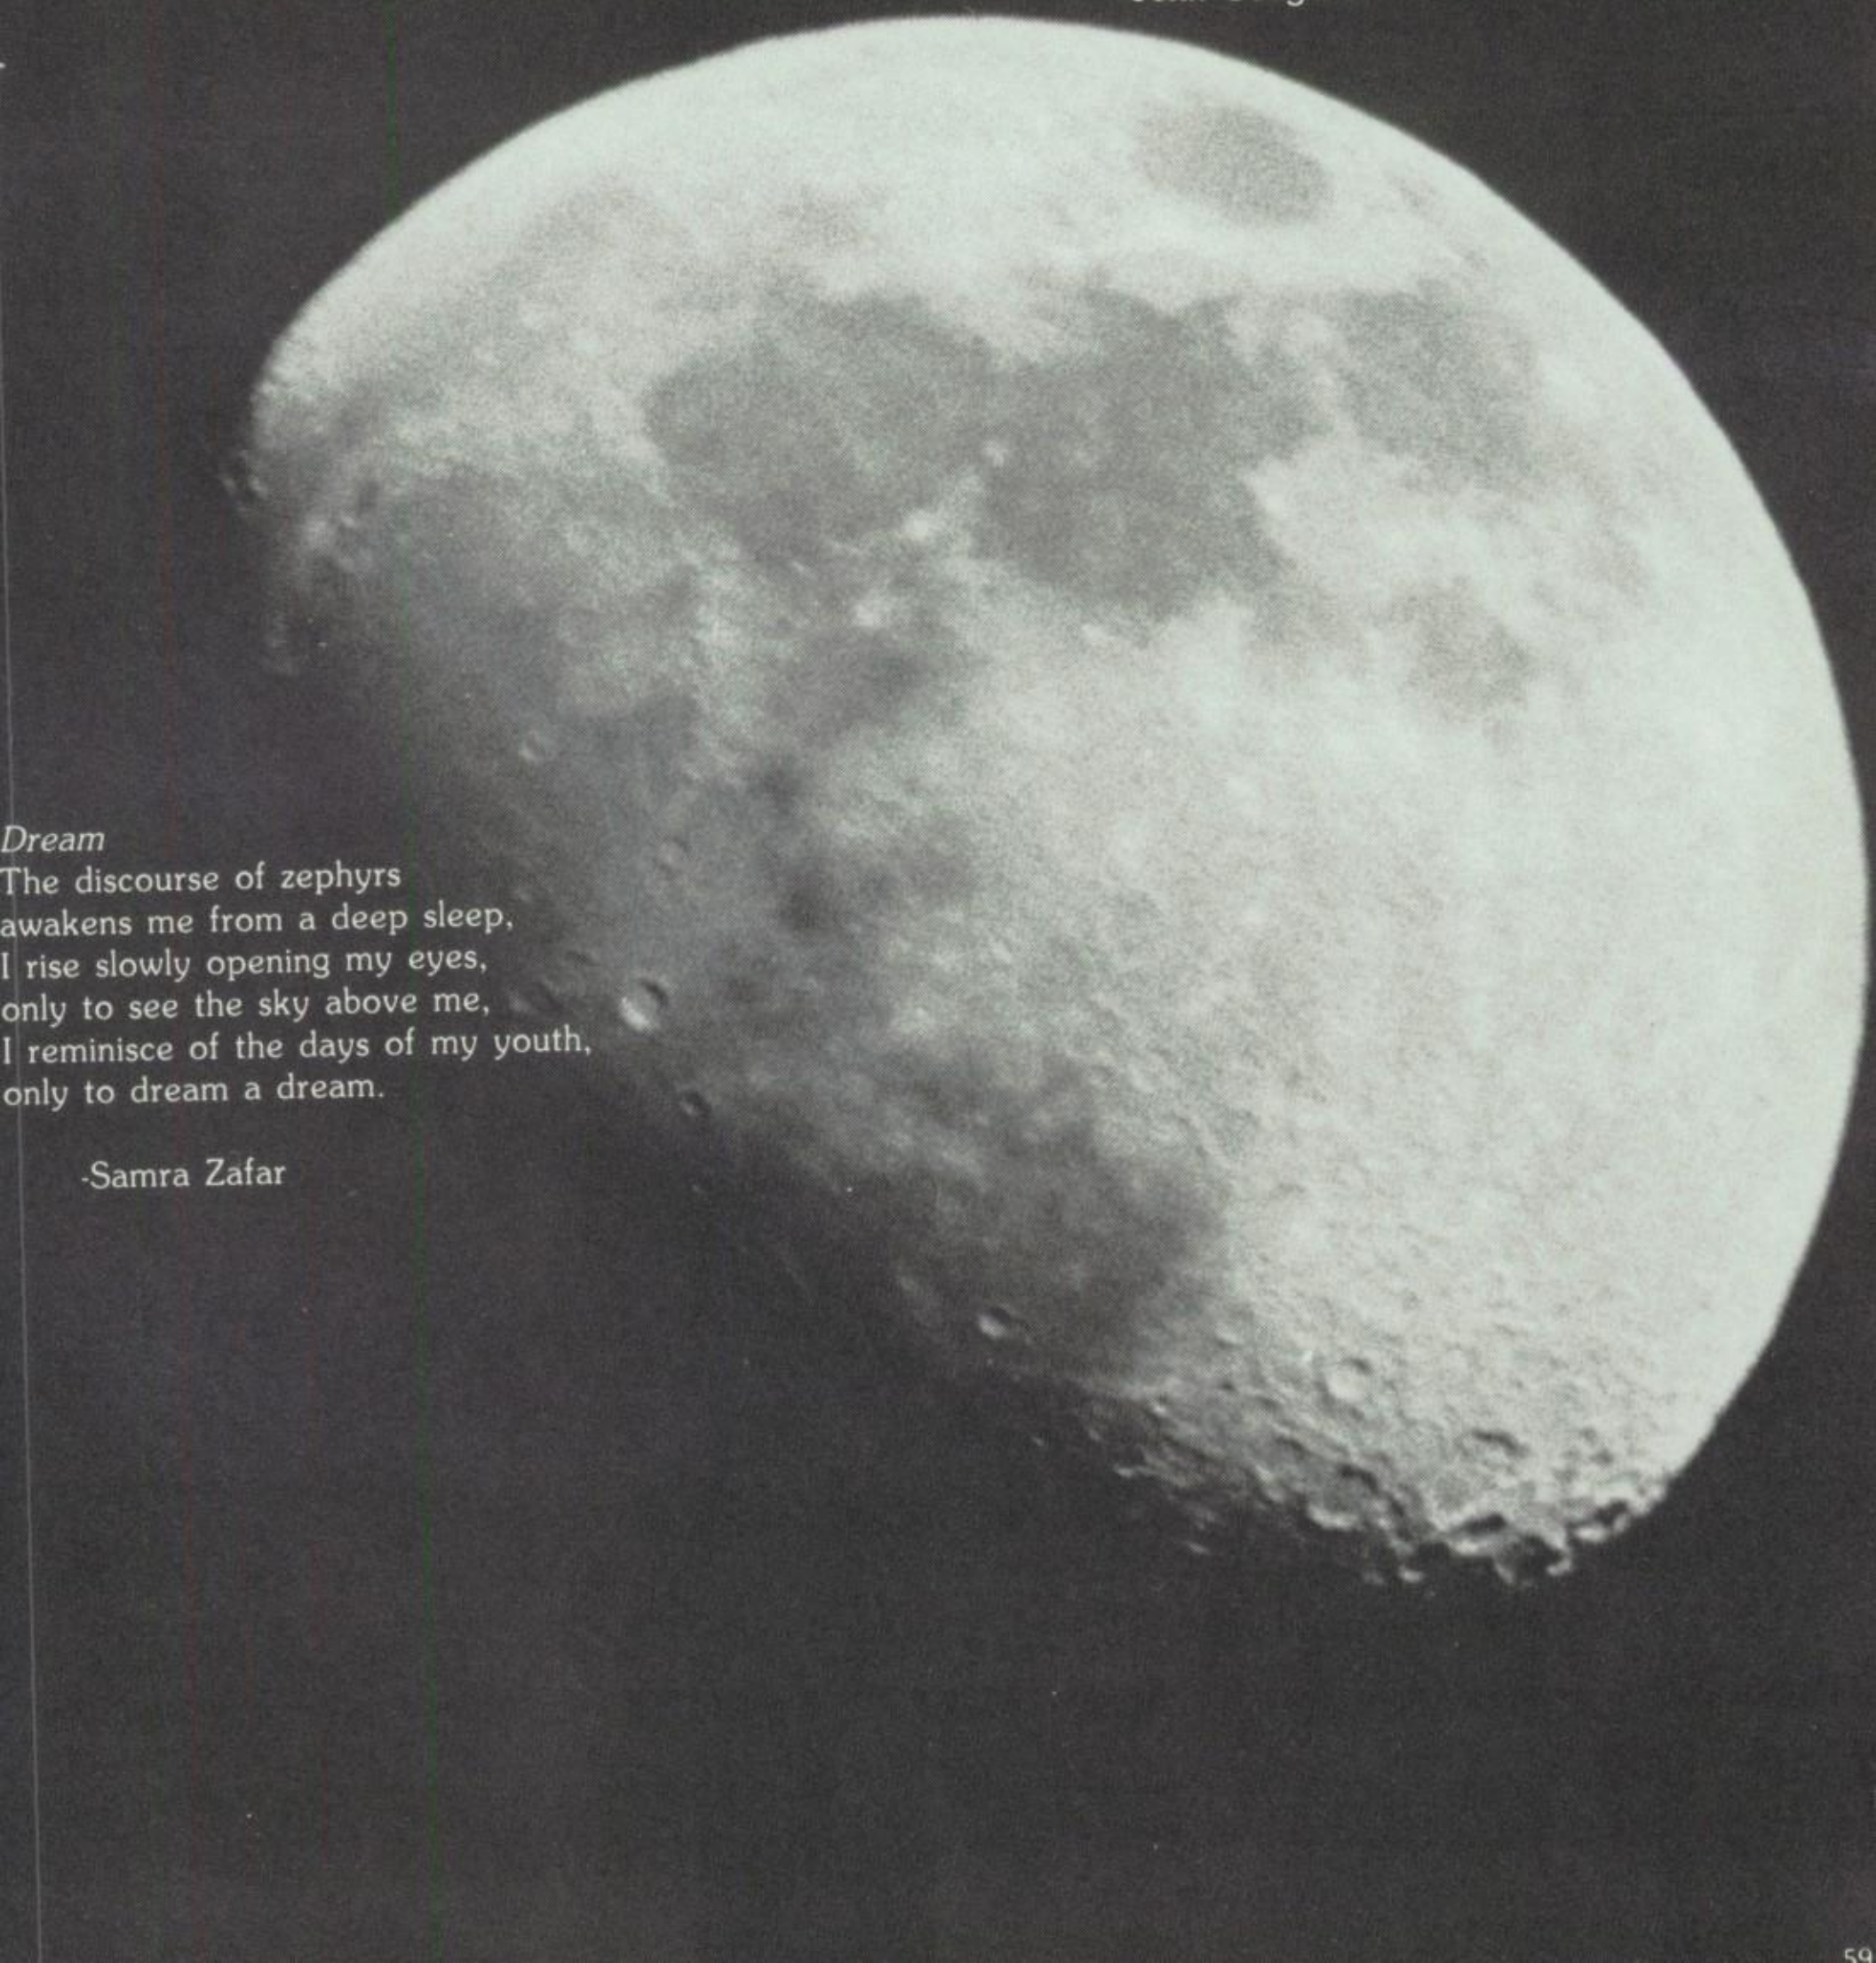

-Joe Colson

To feel life

When you're submerged in water you can't feel the wetness,
Numb that which surrounds you;
When you're dead you can't feel the deadness,
Dumb to that which has found you;
When you're asleep you can't feel unawareness,
Aware of only dreams around you.
When the sun has gone away
And the rain rains your day
Remember, you couldn't truly feel life
If life never downed you.

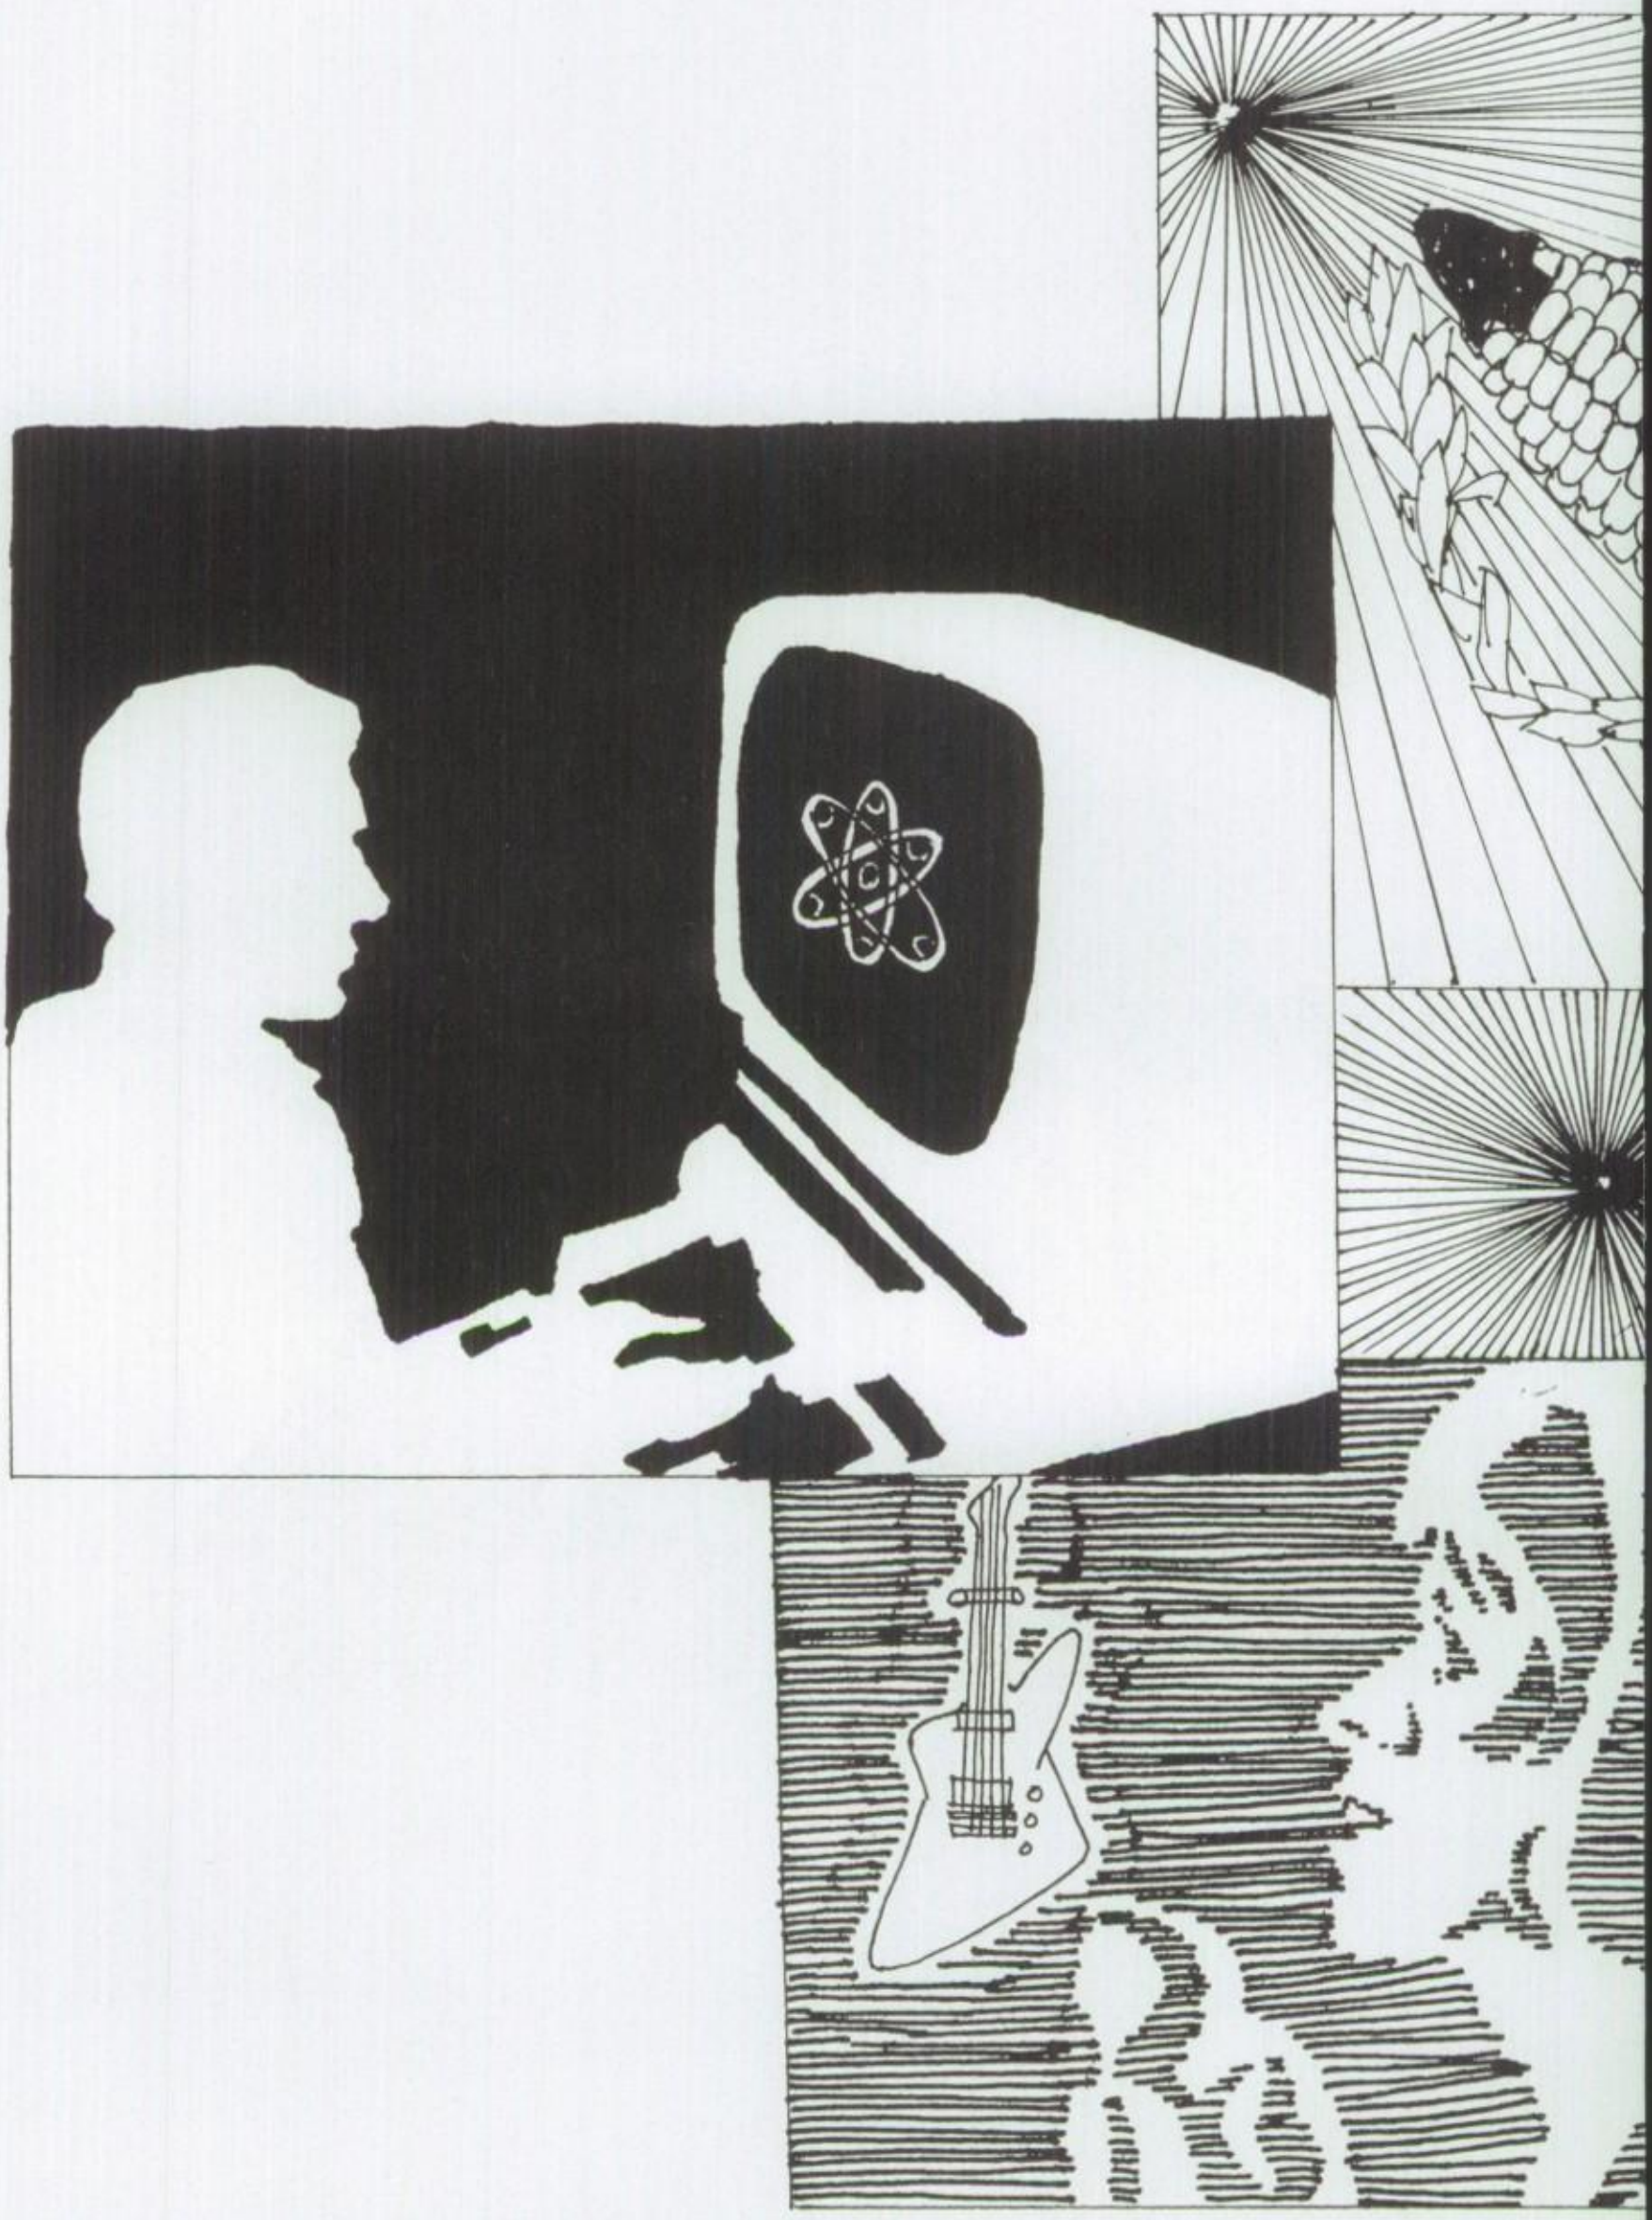

-John Coughlin

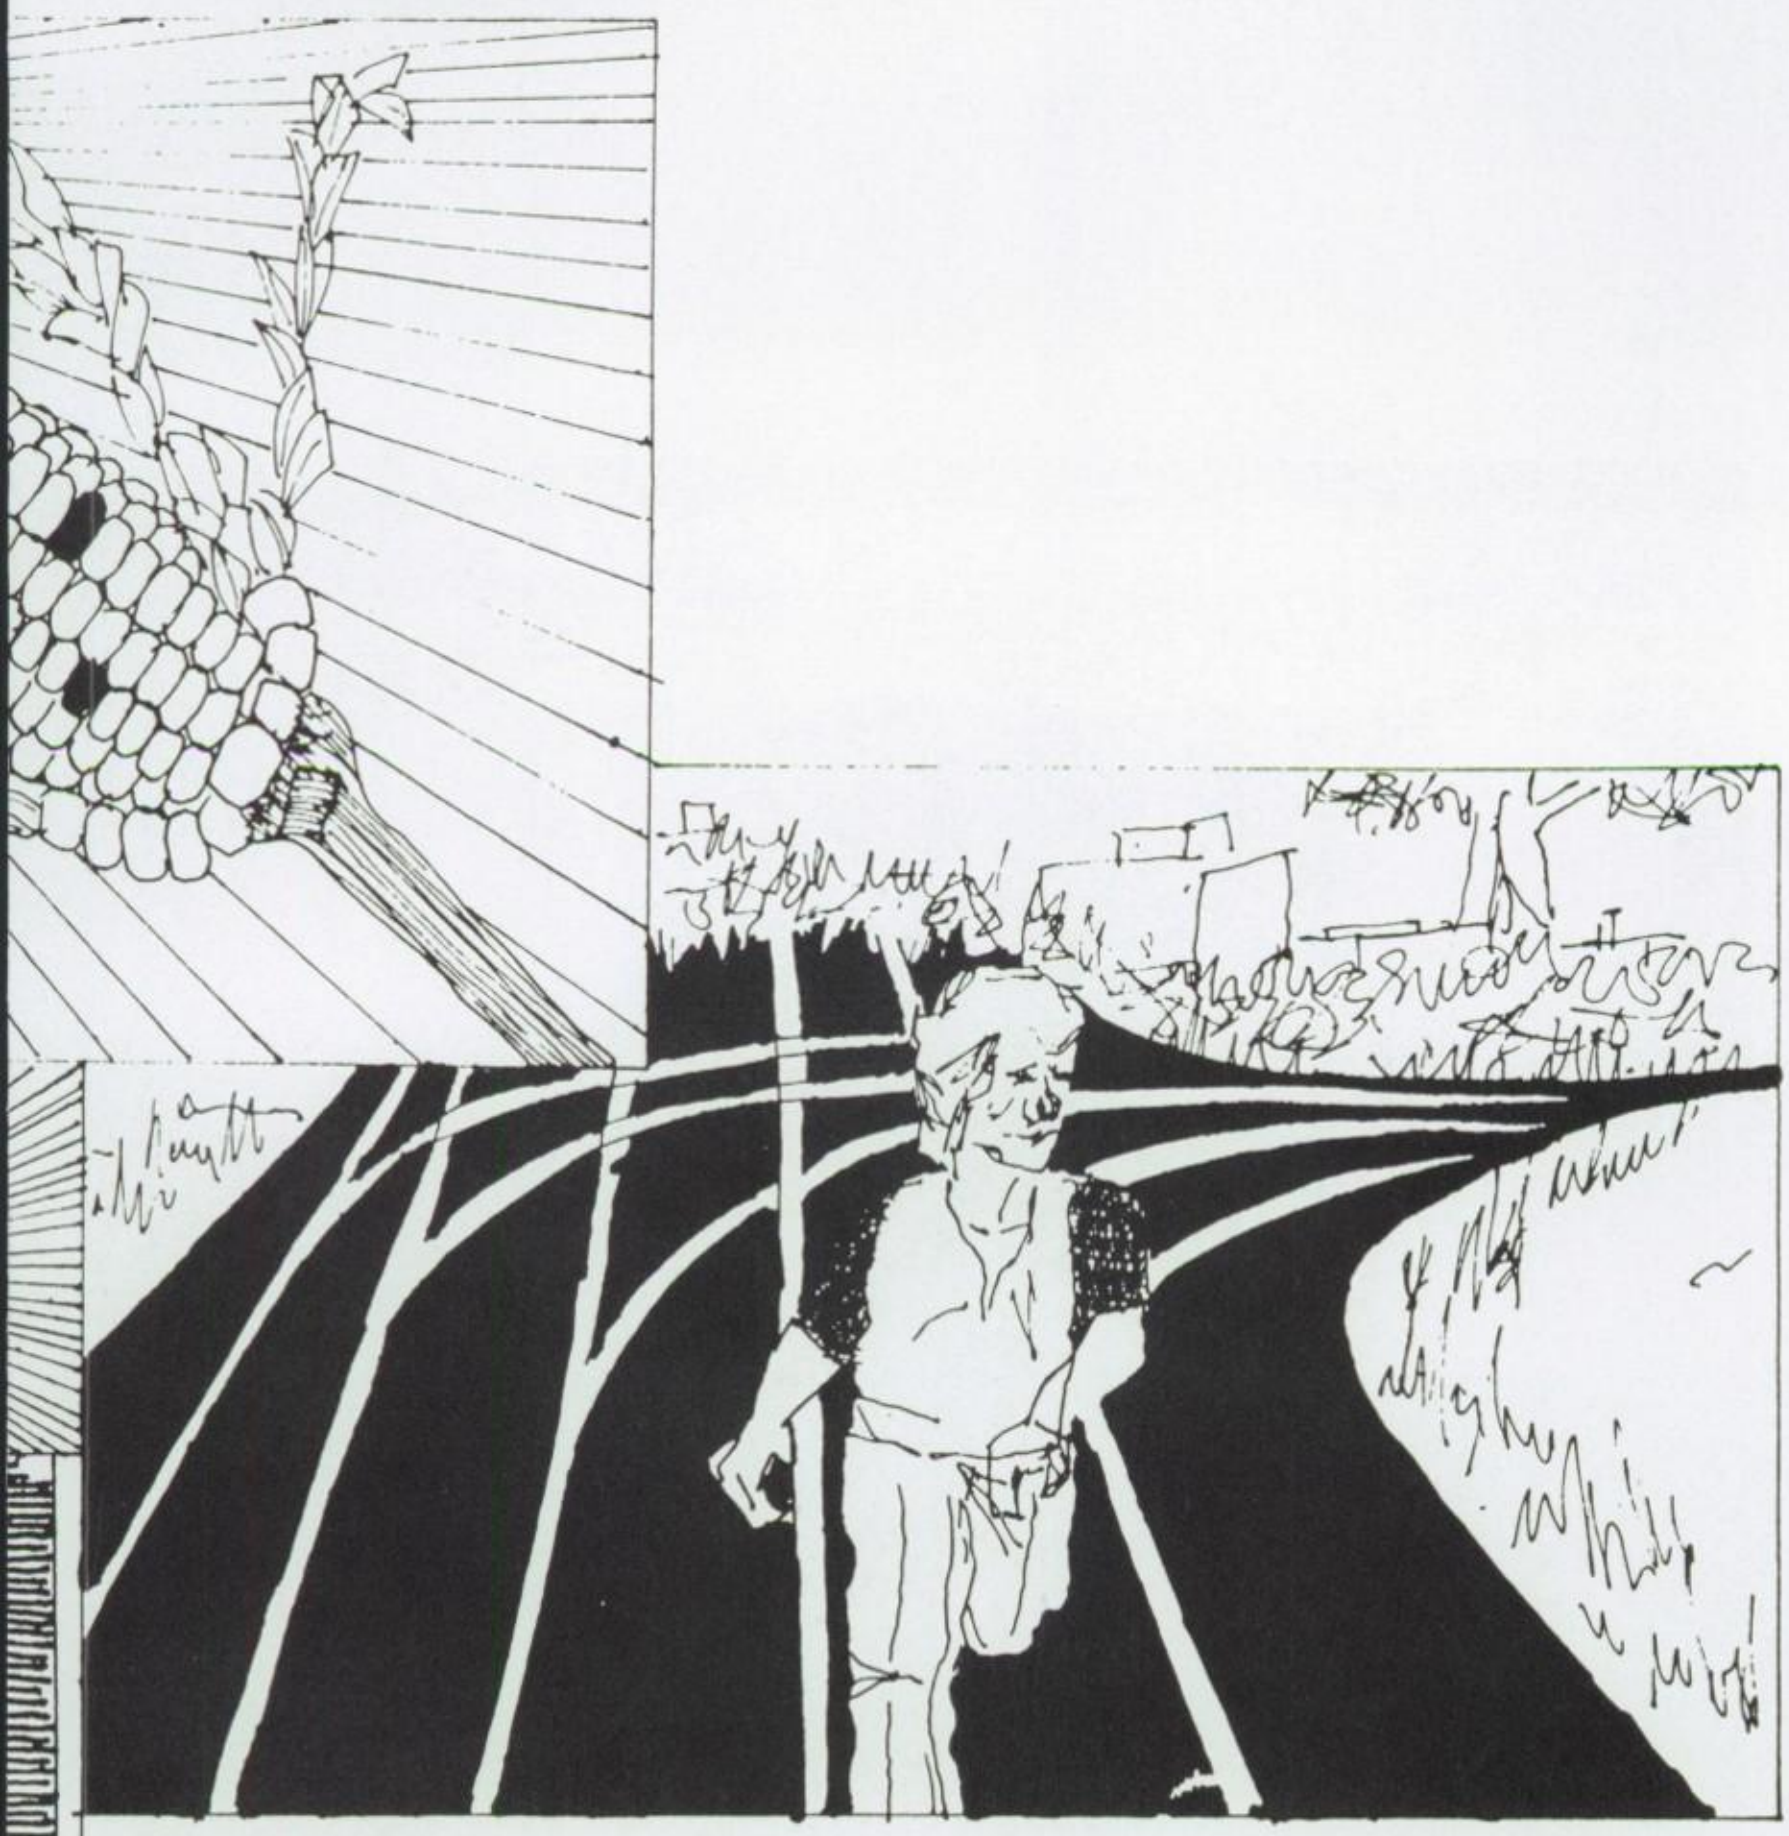

Dream
The discourse of zephyrs
awakens me from a deep sleep,
I rise slowly opening my eyes,
only to see the sky above me,
I reminisce of the days of my youth,
only to dream a dream.

Clubs

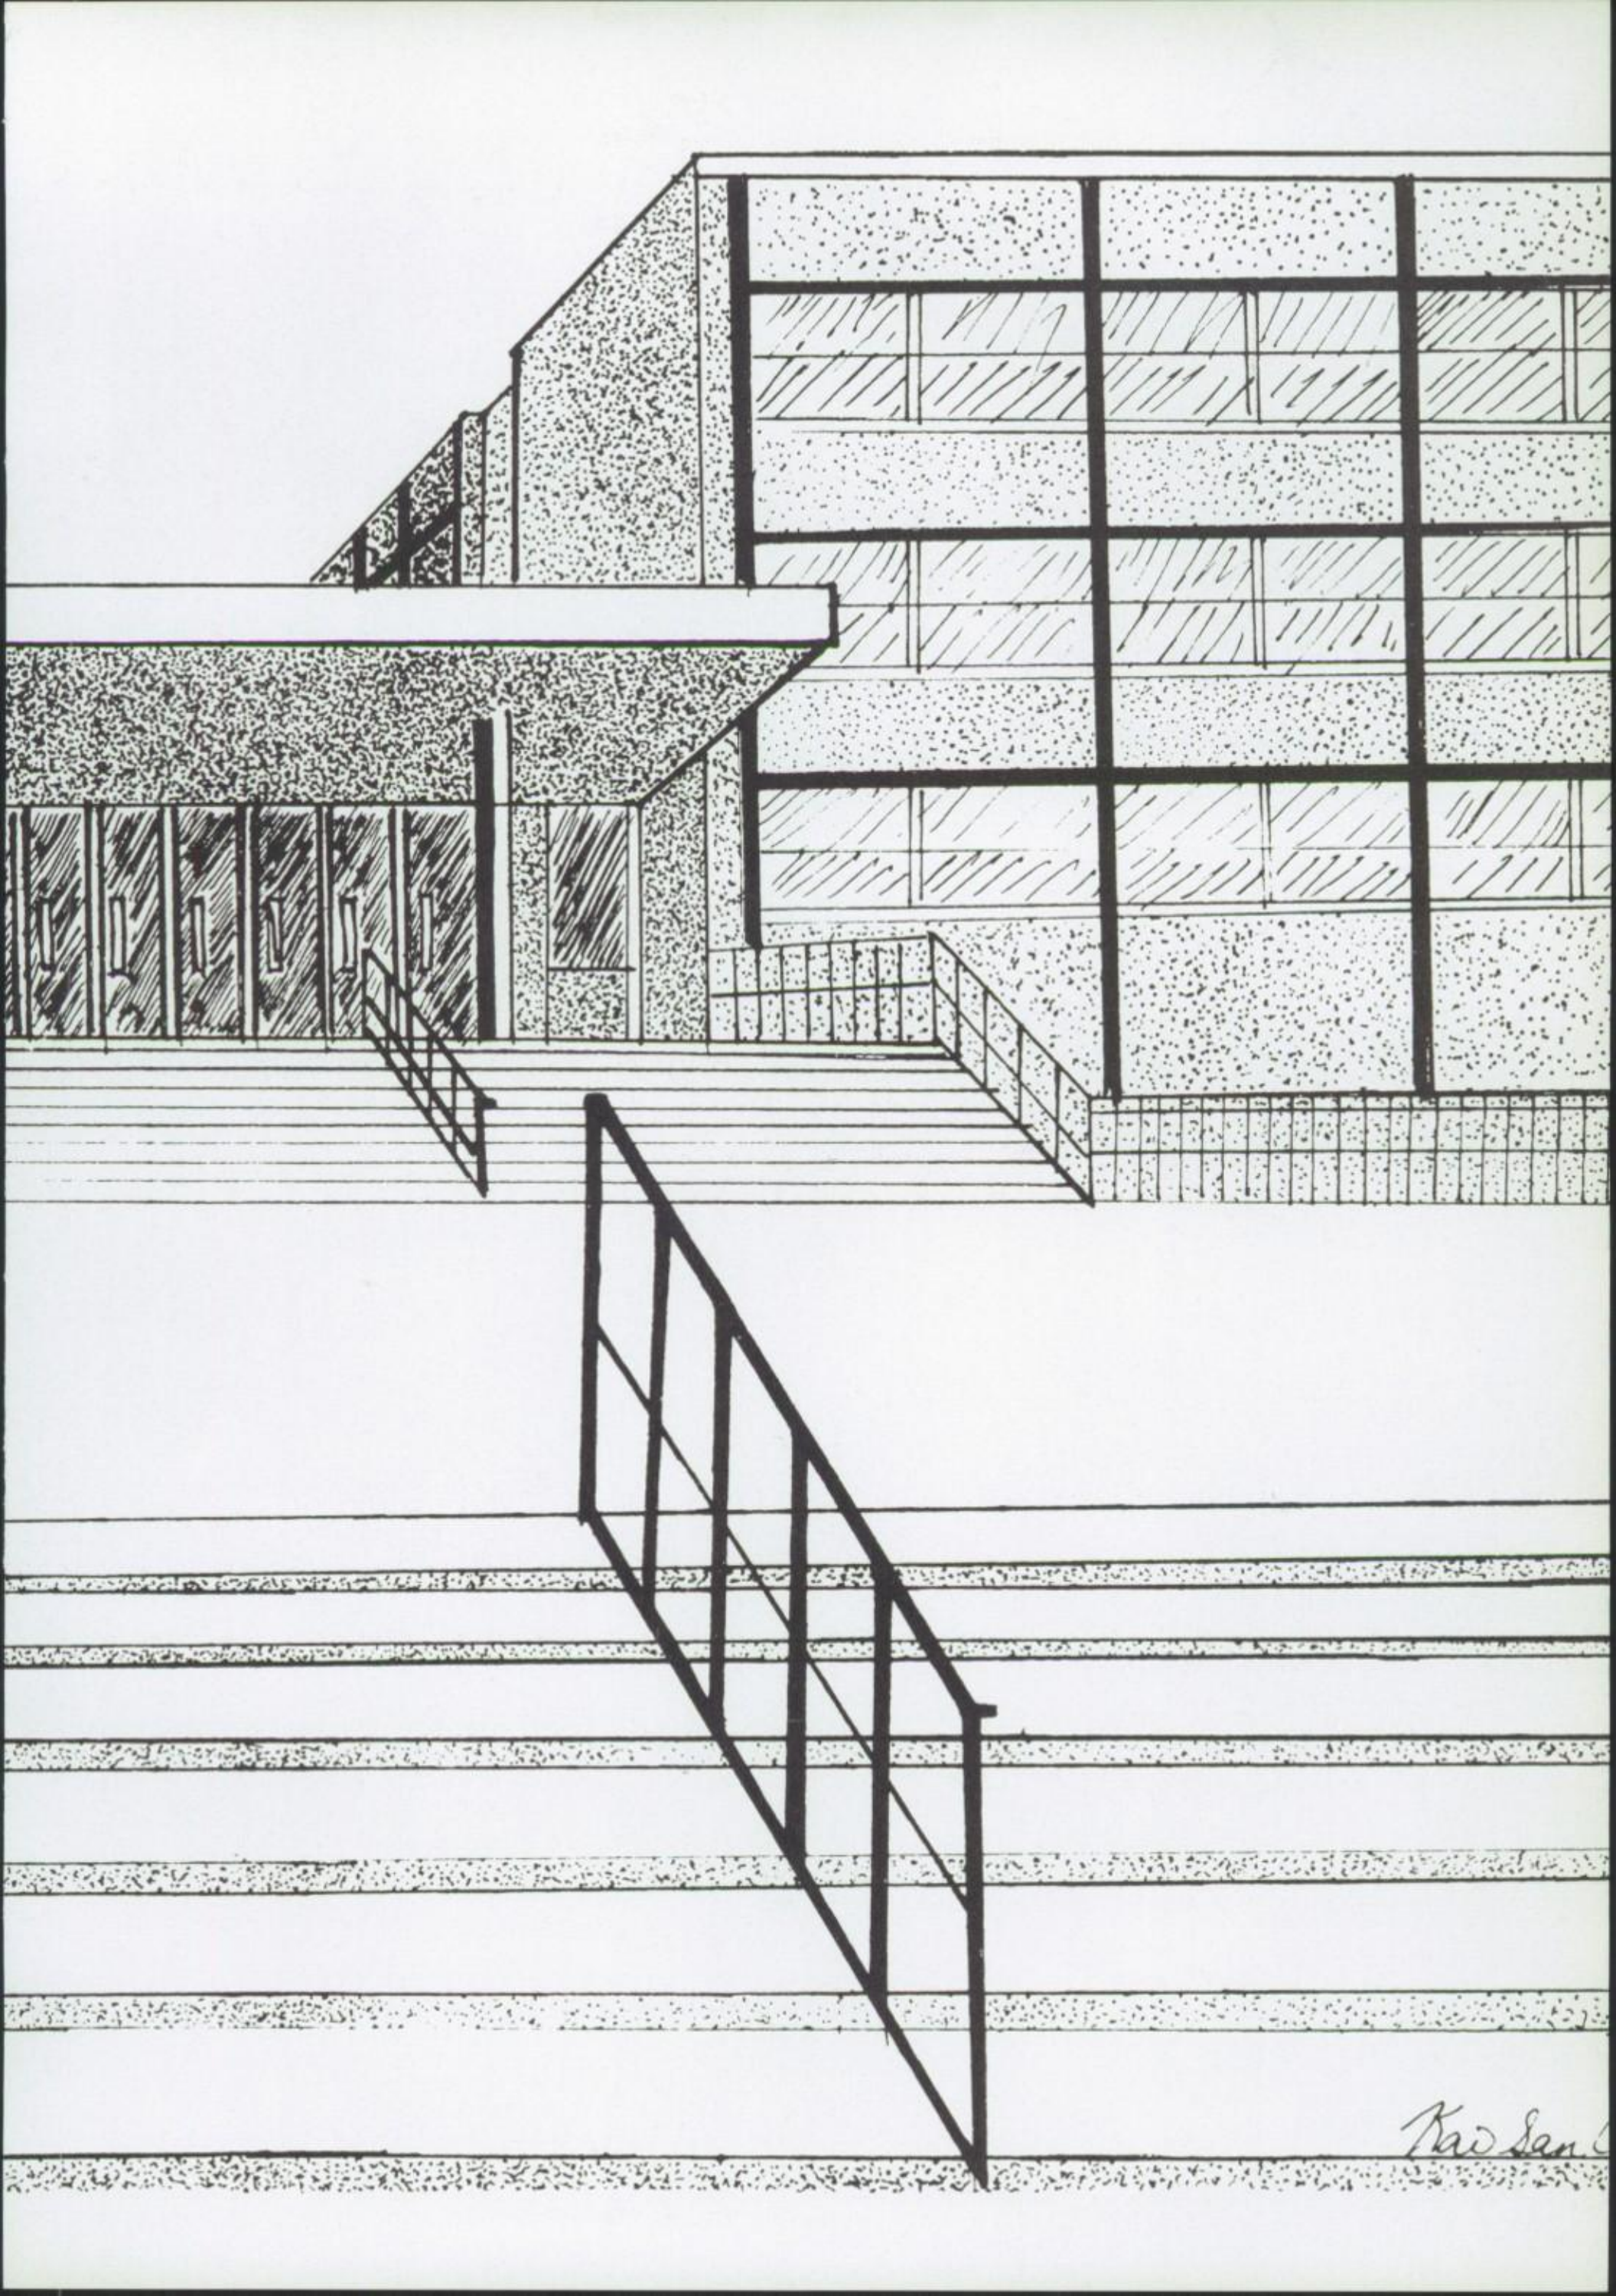

A club is a group or organization. But what makes a club? Participation and group understanding ignite the fuse. Each club member is a special person and expresses his/her individuality.

A club cannot function without its members. Being in a club makes one feel wanted and useful. Of course difficulties arise but one must overcome them; in doing so he/she has accomplished a great deal. A synonymous term for a club is togetherness.

BOWNE'S OLYMPIC DREAMS

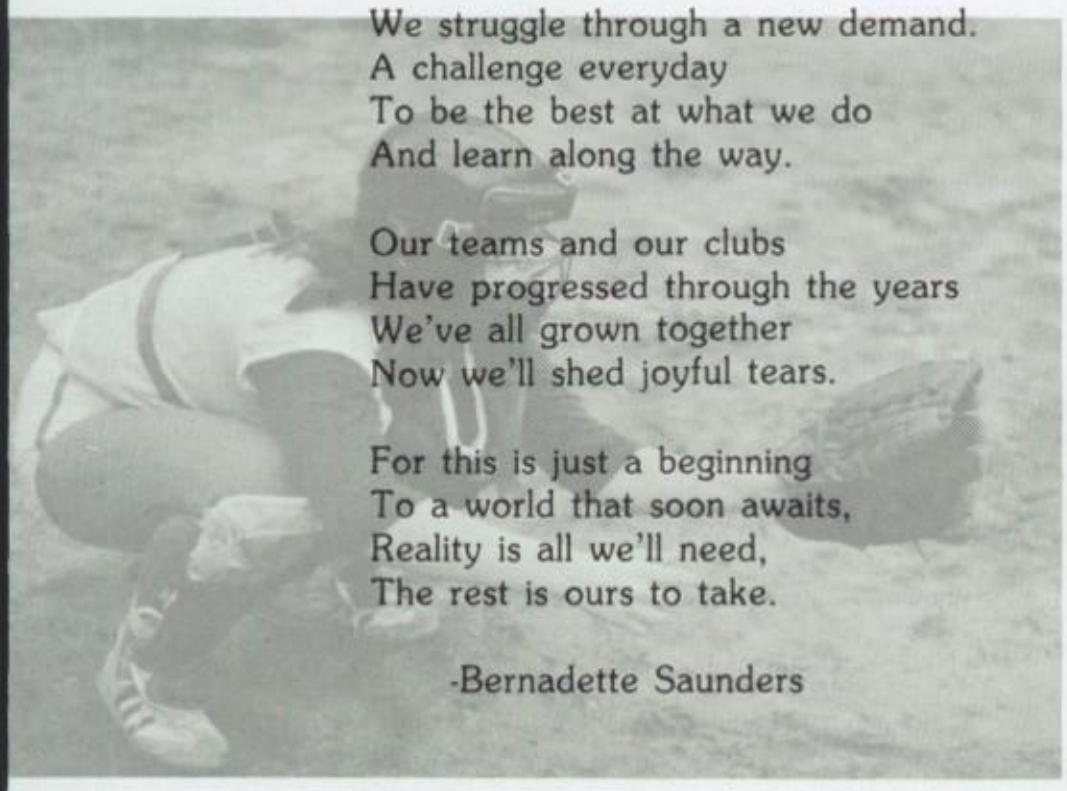

Anticipating the future
Our goals not far from reach
The hopes, strengths and victories
Are special dreams for each.

We struggle through a new demand.
A challenge everyday
To be the best at what we do
And learn along the way.

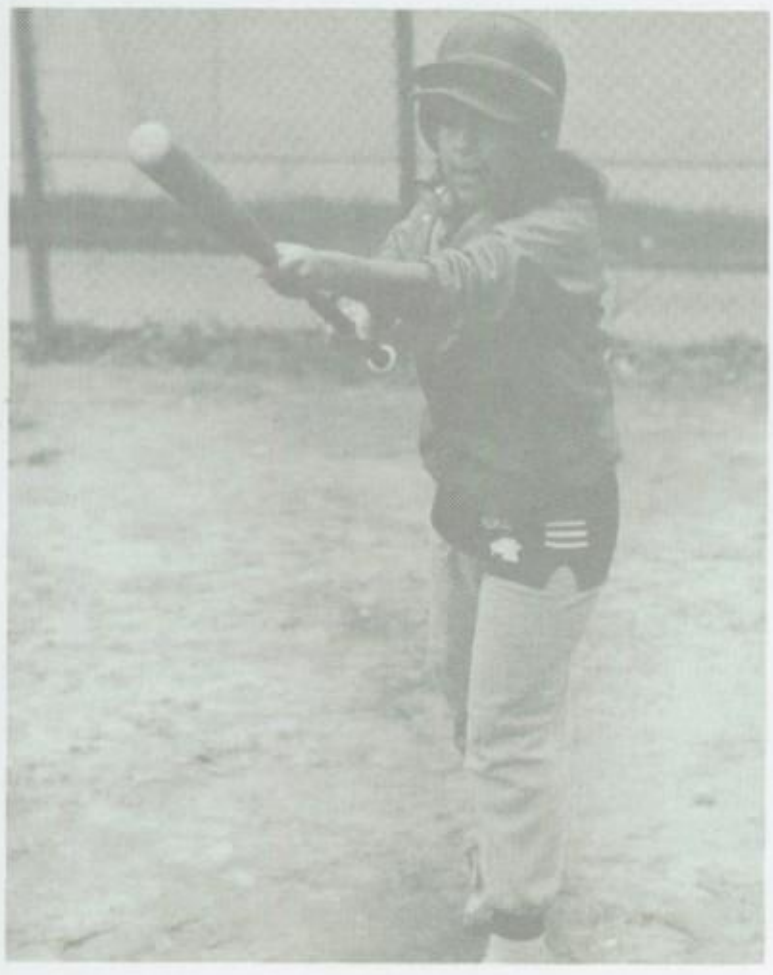

Our teams and our clubs
Have progressed through the years
We've all grown together
Now we'll shed joyful tears.

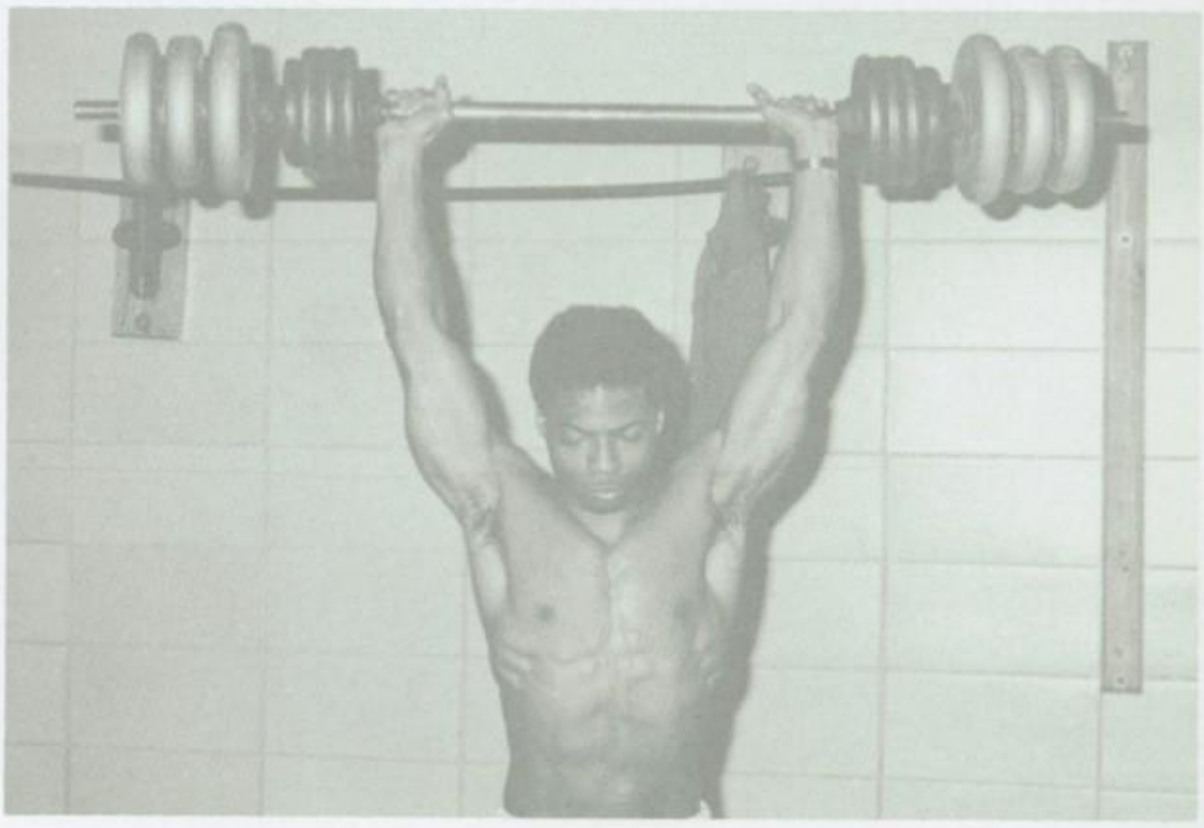

For this is just a beginning
To a world that soon awaits,
Reality is all we'll need,
The rest is ours to take.

-Bernadette Saunders

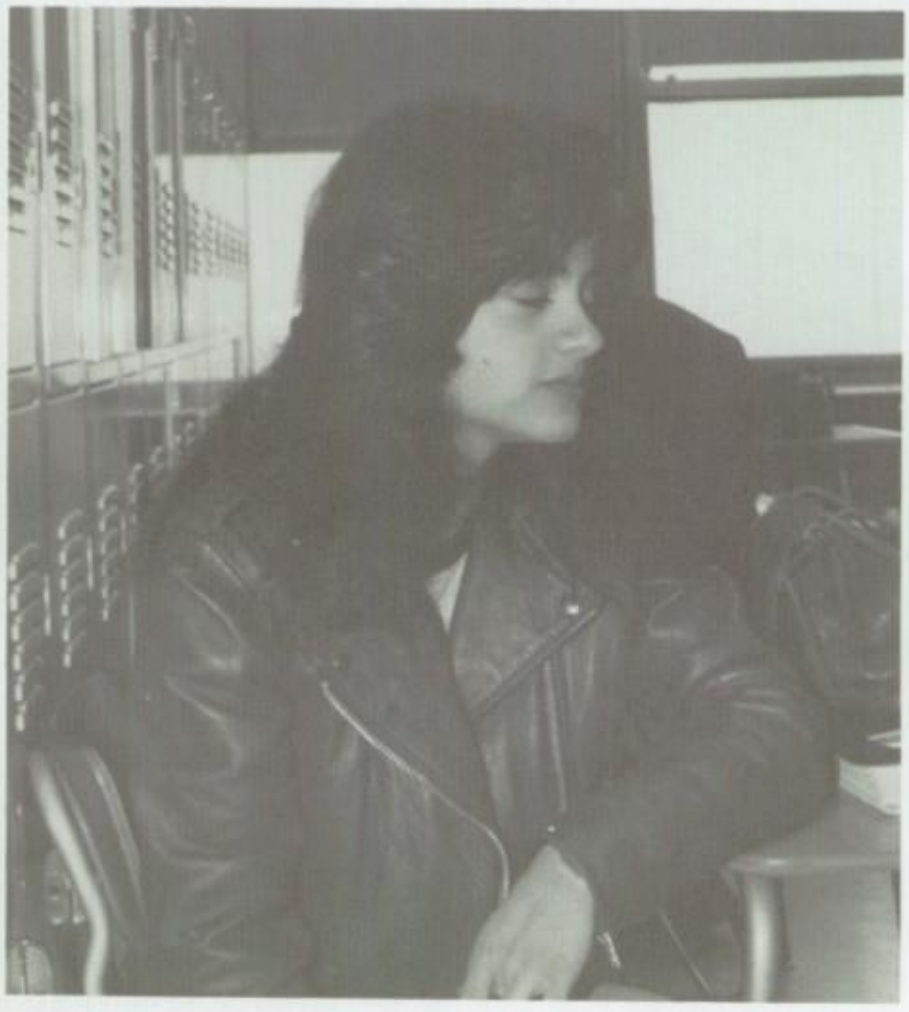

Only because it's . . .

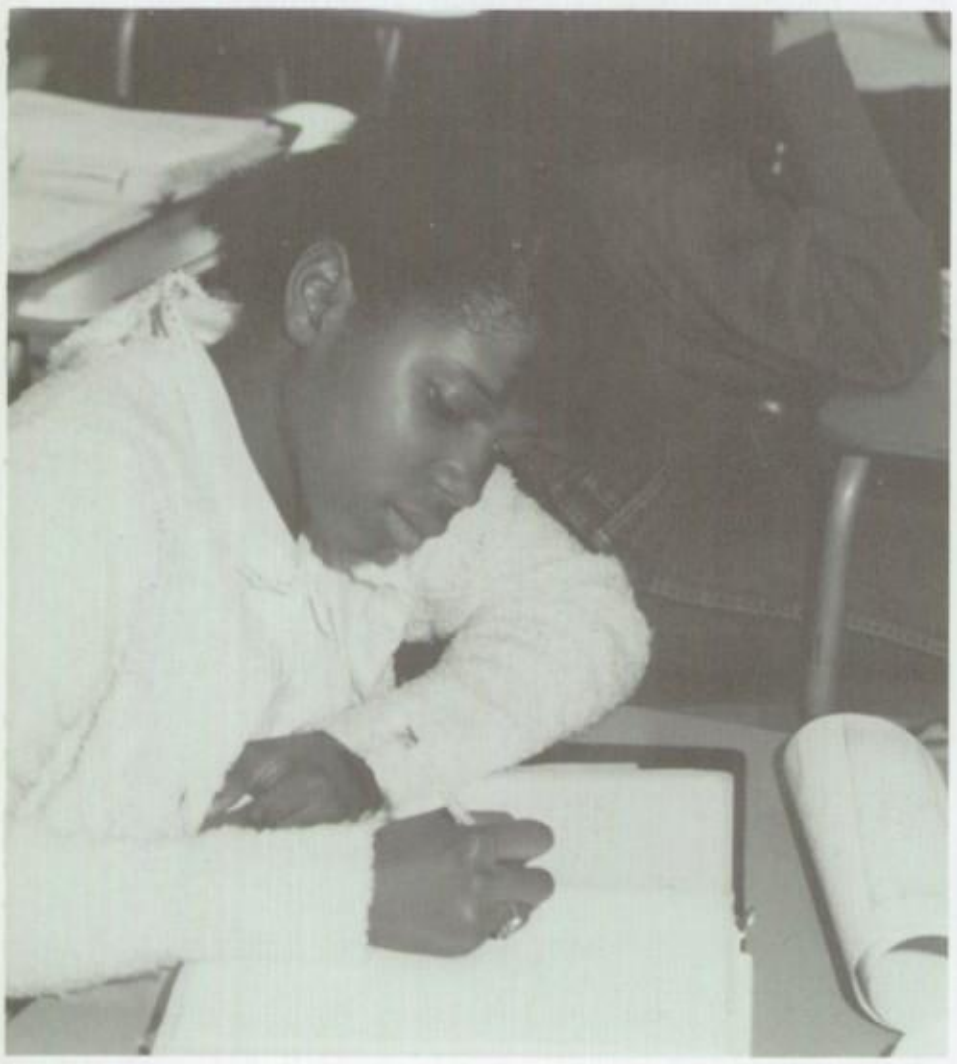

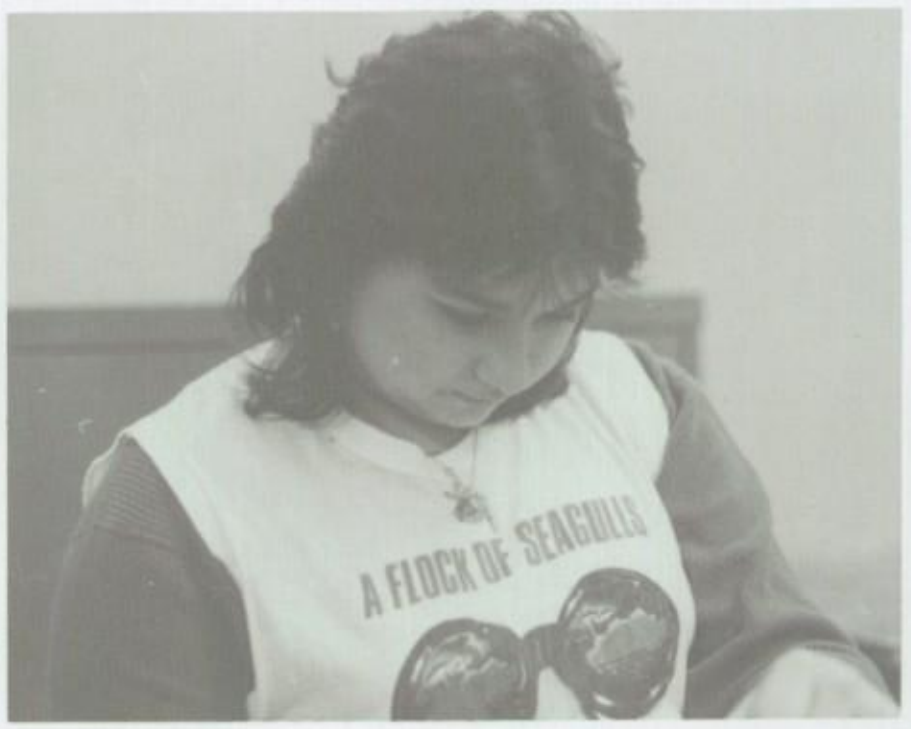

. . . Monday

. . . Tuesday

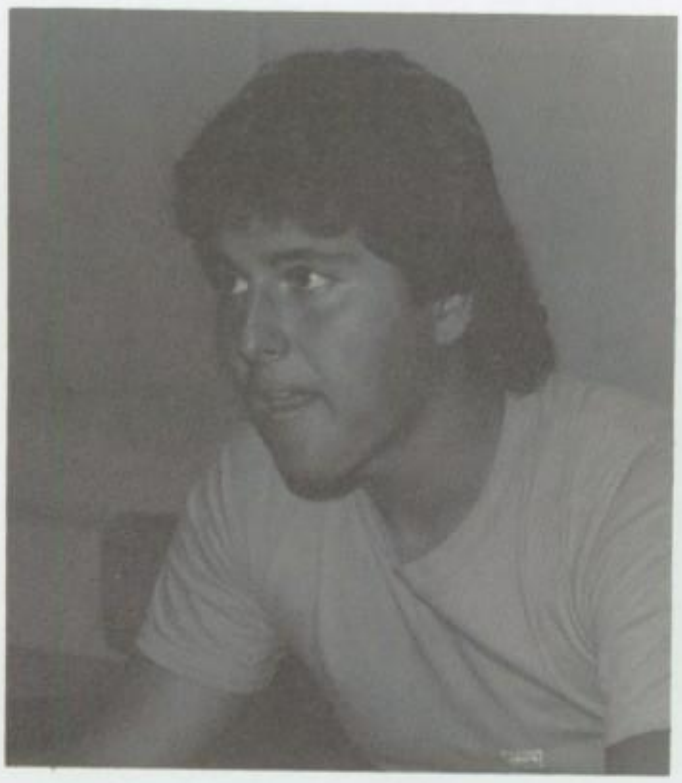

. . . Wednesday

. . . Thursday

. . . Friday!!!

Class Ring

Close to the doorway
He paused to stand
As he took the class ring from her hand.

All who were waiting did not speak as a tear ran down and escaped from his cheek

And in his mind, the memories ran of the moments they laughed in the sun and the sand.

But now her eyes were cold
And he could never have her hand to hold.

They watched in awe as he bent very near and whispered "I love you"
into her ear.
With the class ring on her finger
he kissed her goodbye
Remembering she wore it he began to cry.

Then the door opened and the wind began to blow
As they carried her casket into the snow.

-José Rios

LETTER TO A FRIEND

My dear friend:
The leaves of the trees have changed colour
A tree is shedding its own skin
Autumn is here at my very doorsteps
But you, you haven't changed

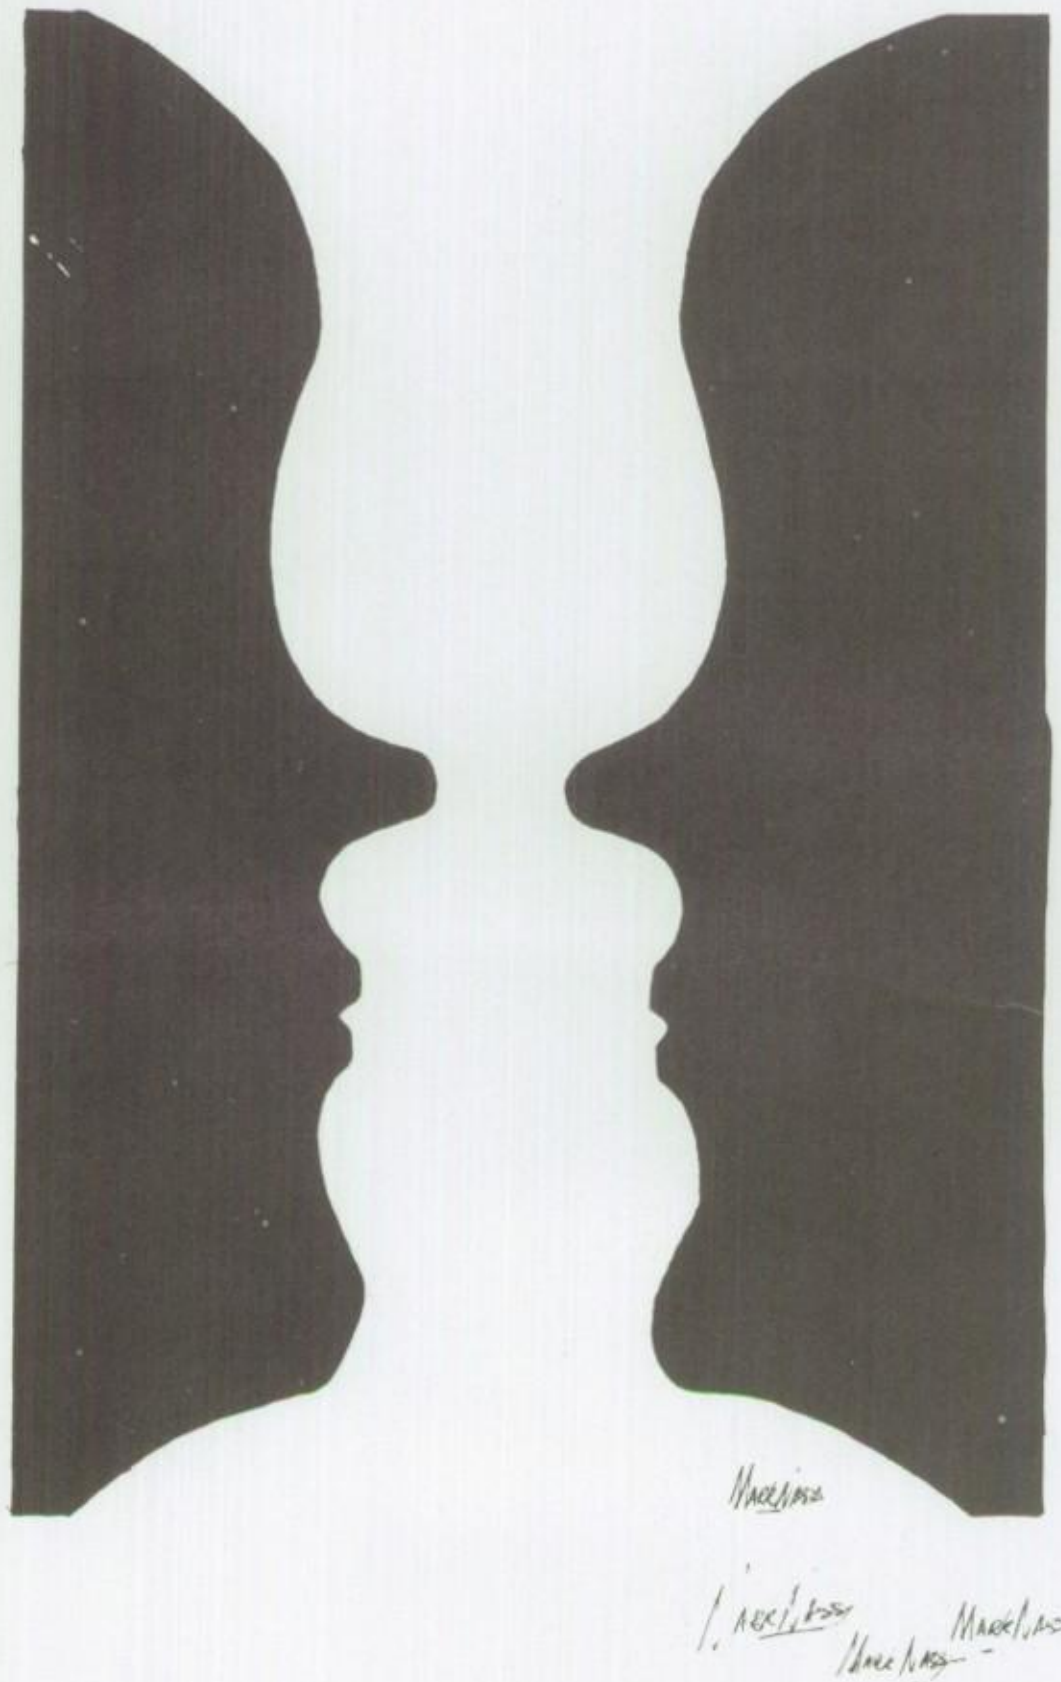

I long for someone, someone to share my feelings with, but you, you never came

Now, the leaves are no longer there
I am a human deprived of my very own flesh
But you, you never feel the pain

My friend, now that I am more dead than alive
It is in you, you in whom I see
A second self and rejoice.

Yours Truly

By Mukesh Kumar

Second Chance

I saw your tears, I felt your pain
The vision of a silhouette is all that remains.
Two people in a light that blinded my soul. Together you were and I was left in the cold
The thoughts are playing, like riddles in my mind. The question keeps appearing:
"Just one more time?"
Why ask - you should have known it would be this way, if not for now, soon. Someday.
You lied to me again and again.
Excuses for places you should have been.
"They" laugh at me behind my back.
I smile, unaware of the knowledge I lack

. . . of seeing the truth when we're apart
no more tears or pain left, just a brokenheart.

-Bernadette Saunder

Natalie Arndt

I'm Sorry

Too often if we've hurt someone
Our pride gets in the way
And the simple words I'm sorry
Are the hardest words to say

We wish we could take back the things
We said so heedlessly
Renew the ties our angry barbs
Have severed needlessly.

Perhaps we fear rejection
If we even make a try
At mending broken fences
And eating humble pie.

Perhaps we think we've waited
Too long to heal the breach
And reconciliation
is way beyond our reach

But once we take that first big step
We're pretty apt to see
The olive branch we offer is accepted eagerly

And the simple words "I'm Sorry"
Will open up the doors
To a more enduring friendship
Than the one we shared before.

Robin Smith

Predicament
Why do we fight?
Why do we kill something as precious as life?
I see no reason to do battle,
Especially when there is no solution.
We should settle our differences verbally,
In war the young and innocent die,
Not the elite group who decides upon war.
We pay the price for their foolish decision.
We suffer consequences due to their suspicions.

Disturbance
ripples on the water
waves persist

-Samra Zafar

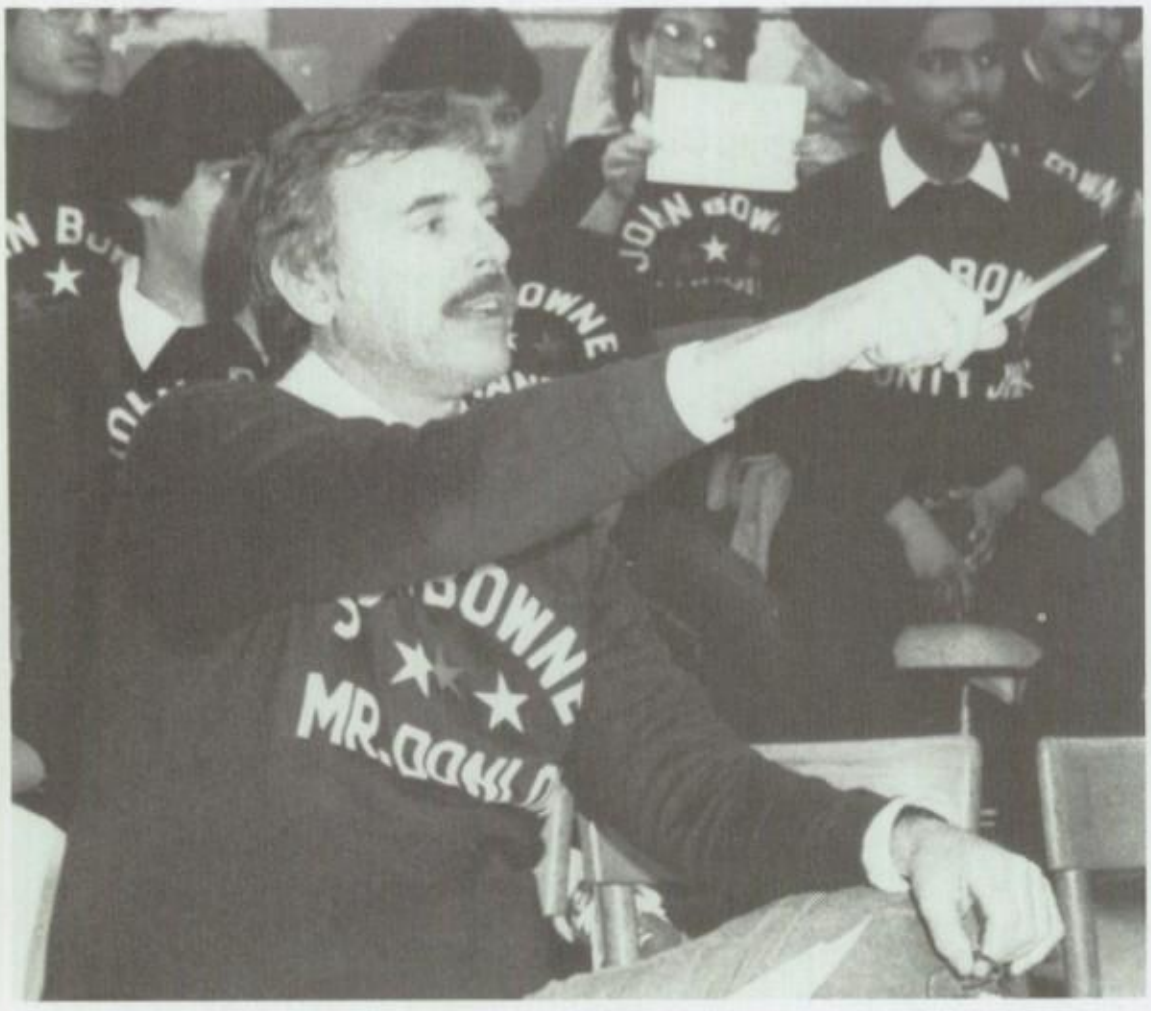

My Message

Today I cried a painful tear for the world that's falling apart:
The violence and the terrible ways,
I wish people would have a heart.
The people of the world today . . .
It's just obvious, they don't care.
The world's too busy thinking of itself.
We are really not aware!
The world is whirling very fast.

Please hear the words I say:
(the only answer I can see)
With a prayer, love, and dedication
The way to keep our world alive
Is to think more of we . . . than me!

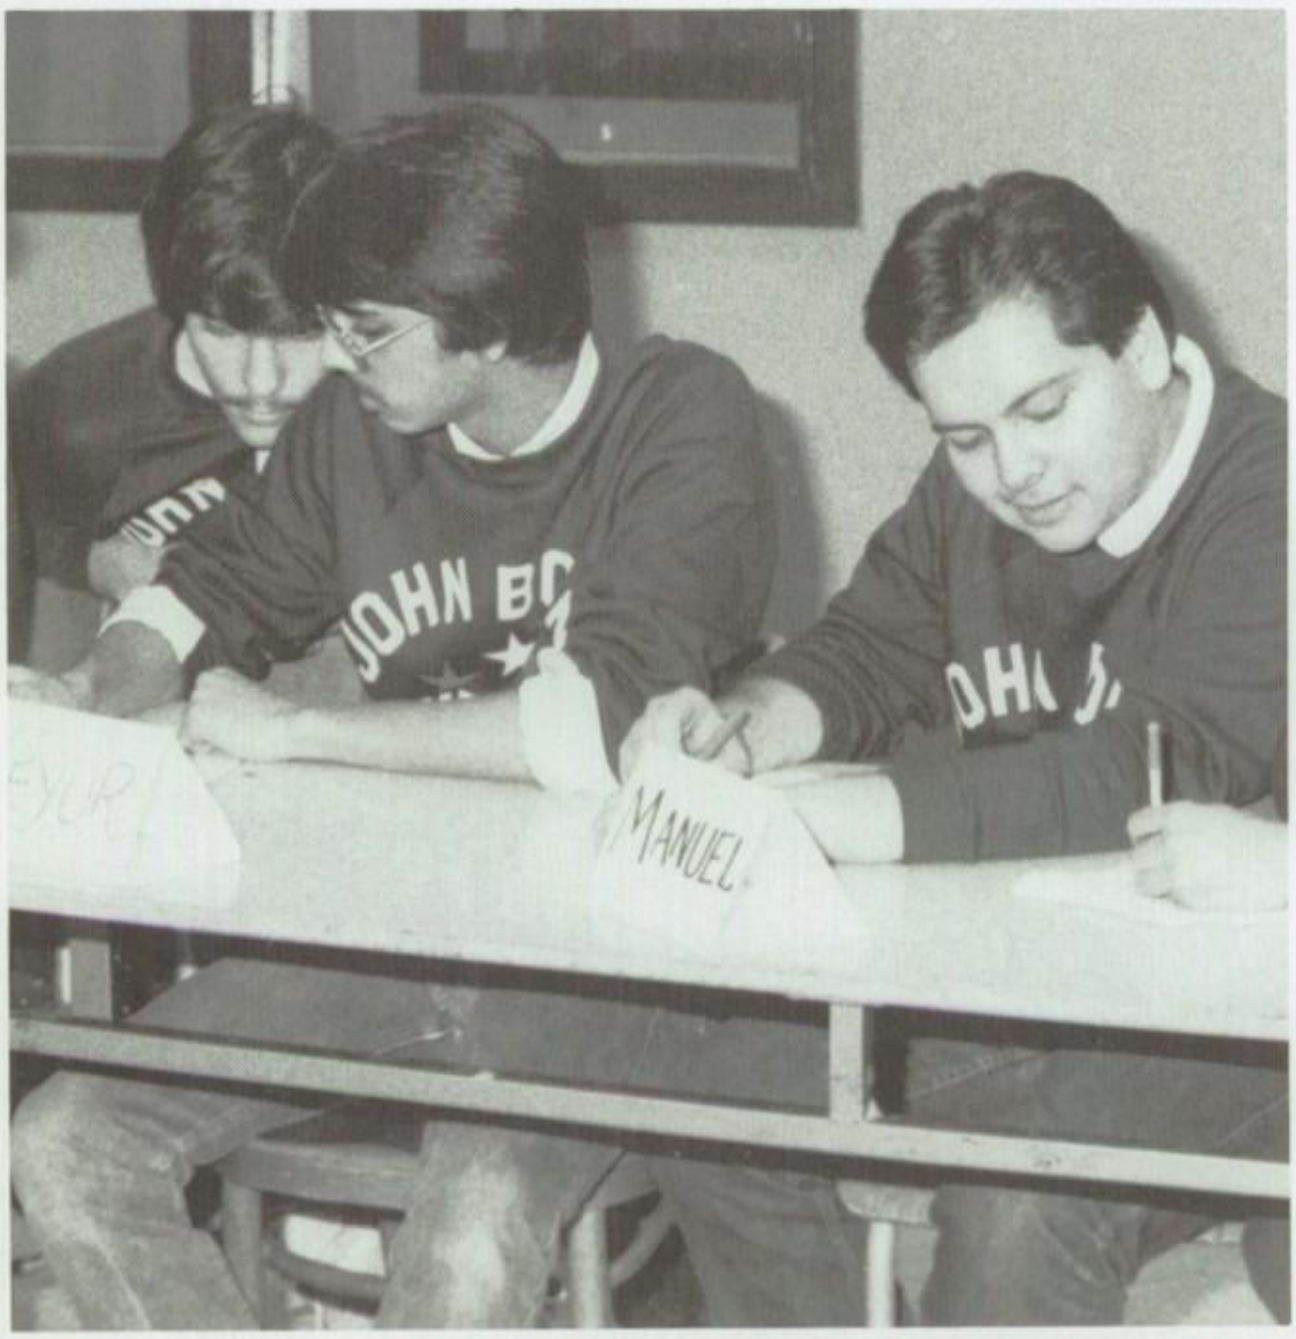

-Gina Gonzalez

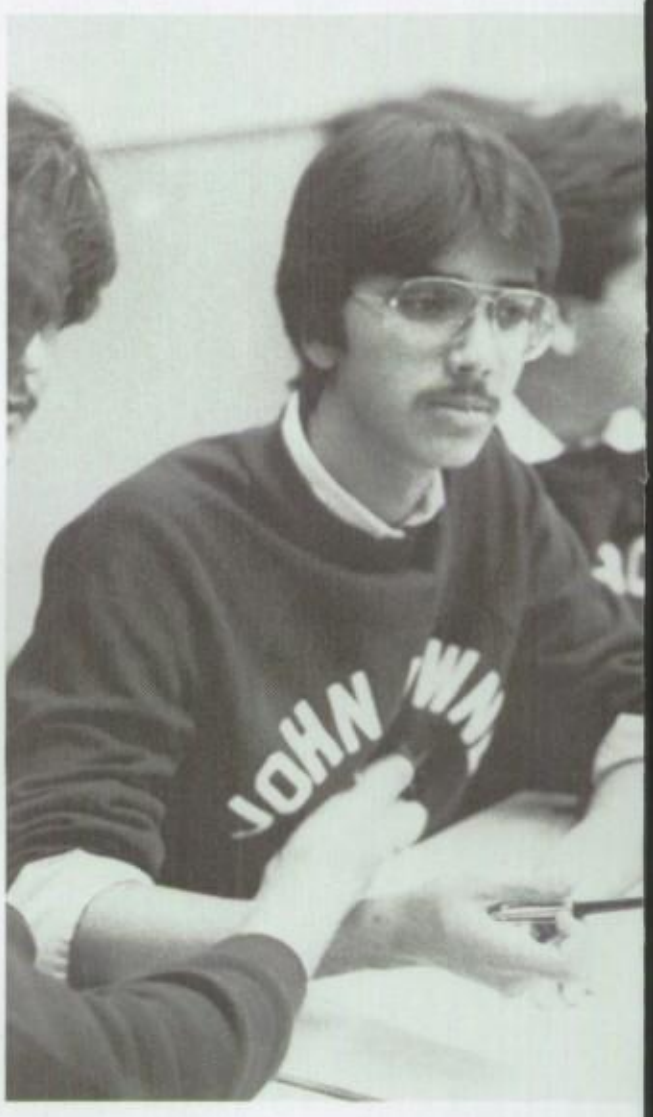

Academic Olympics

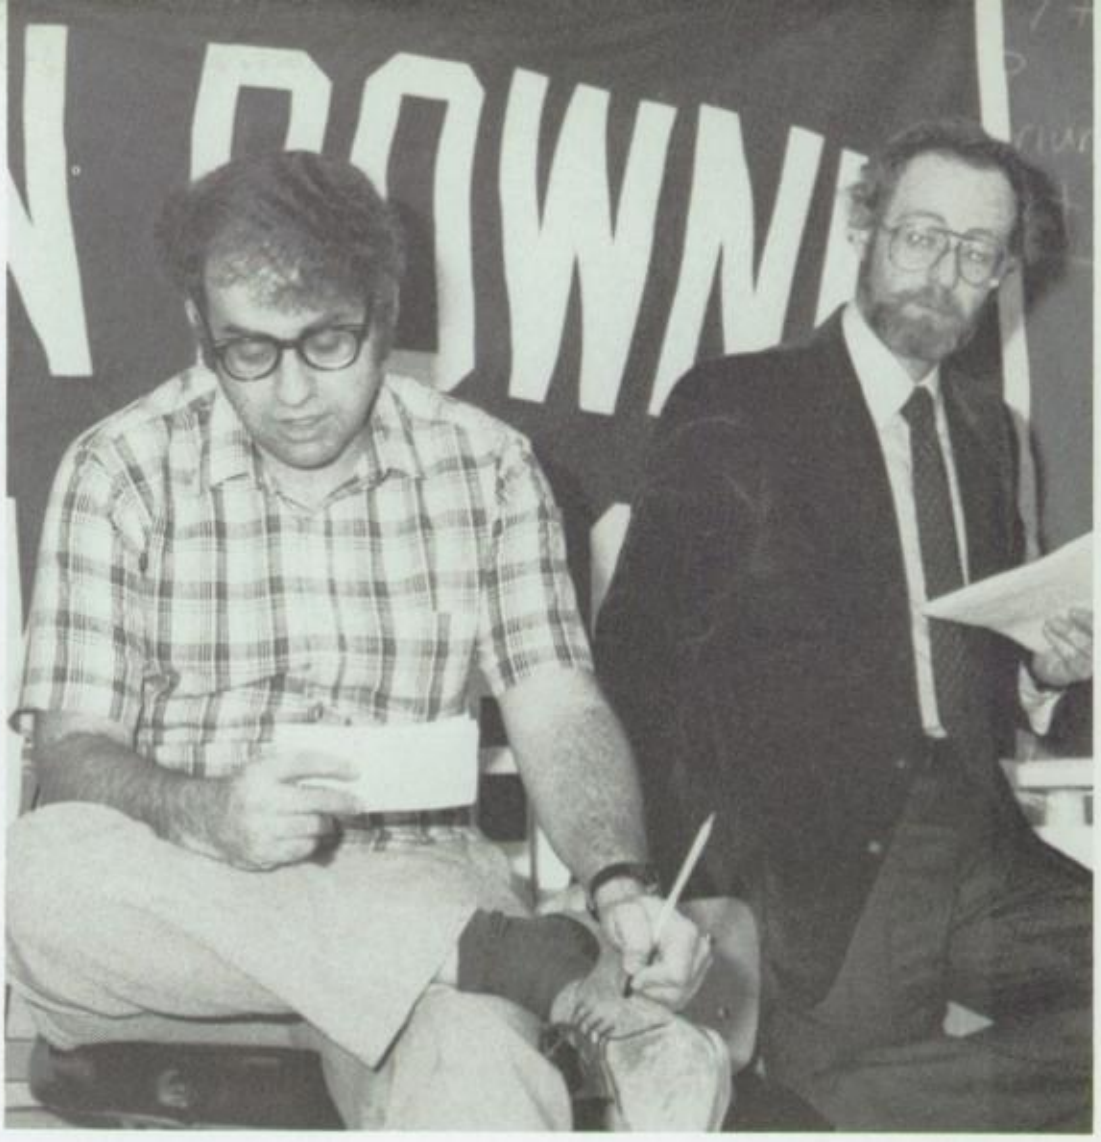

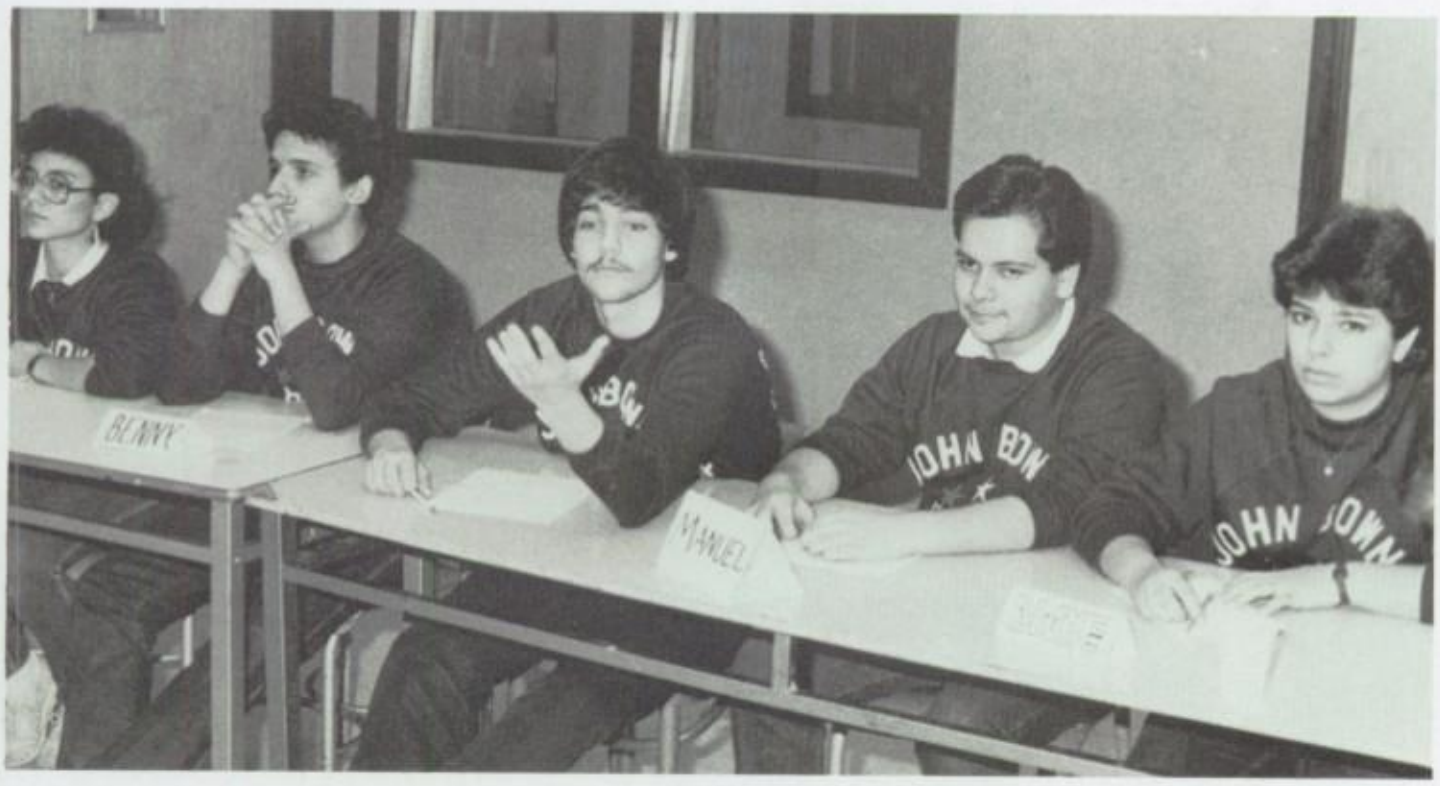

As team sports are to athletes, so is the Academic Olympics team to the brightest student in our school. They compete as a team and as individuals against other high schools in contests based on knowledge of many subject areas. Our successful, hardworking team is a proud representative of John Bowne High School.

My Wish

I wish my album to contain,
Some old familiar traces
Of all my loved and valued friends,
For here their proper place is.
Write down your names and wishes
As tokens of remembrance,
For friends I'd like to think of you
What 'ere may be the distance.
